GOP DEBATE AT EASE — Two Republican aspirants for the 28th Congressional District seat appear at ease as they discuss ground rules for their debate that followed Wednesday night at a session sponsored by Town of Esopus Republican Club at Town Hall, Port Ewen. In the usual order are Alexander Aldrich of Chatham Center, Columbia County, choice of Ulster,

Greene, Schoharie and Columbia for the GOP nomination; Jack Reynolds, president of Esopus GOP and Hamilton Fish Jr., of Millbrook, choice of his home county, Dutchess. Both Aldrich and Fish are seeking to unseat incumbent Democratic Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellen-

Irish March To Celebrate St. Pat's Day

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A parade celebrating St. Patrick's Day streamed along Dublin's famous O'Connell Street today — and all eyes turned to the spot where Nelson's pillar once stood.

The 134-foot monument to Britain's most famous admiral was blown up in the early hours of March 8. The explosion was believed to be the work of the Republican Army.

Raze Pedestal
Irish demolition troops this week finished off the 50-foot pedestal that remained.

Today's festivities got under way early and quietly with an industrial parade through the city's center.

St. Patrick's Day in Dublin is a quiet affair compared with the "blow out" in New York. Until recently the only place a Dubliner could get a drink on St. Pat's was at the Ballsbridge Dog Show.

The festive day dawned with church bells calling all Irishmen to religious services. There was a special service at the Church of Ireland's Anglican Cathedral at Downpatrick, County Down, where some believe St. Patrick is buried.

Has Floats, Girls
The annual parade in Dublin is a commercial affair with advertising floats and pretty girls. For the first time its route down O'Connell Street was not dominated by Nelson's column, have blasted the 50-foot stump that remained after the extremist blast.

The statue to Britain's most famous admiral was erected by British public subscription in 1809 to commemorate Lord Nelson's victory over the French at Trafalgar. To Irish nationalists it was a symbol of British oppression.

Extremists also recently hurled fire bombs at Dublin's British Legion (veterans) Club and set fire to the home of the British military attaché.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army has denied responsibility for the terrorism, which is attributed to a far-out extremist group. Its name is not generally known.

75 Hear Aldrich and Fish Differences Noted In Esopus Debate

Several significant differences were apparent between Alexander Aldrich and Hamilton Fish Jr., during their Wednesday night debate in their battle for the GOP designation to run for the 28th Congressional seat, but both agreed the main issue was

Tabulating Loss In Store Blaze; Evacuate Women

A fire believed to have started from a short circuit in an electric trunk cord in the basement Wednesday damaged the three-story, brick, mercantile and apartment building housing Dittmar's Shoe Store, 578 Broadway, operated by John J. Naccarato, Third Ward alderman.

Firemen, who said the building was heavily charged with pungent smoke when they arrived, reported two women assisted to safety down ladders.

Smoke Damage Heaviest

Naccarato, who said damage was heaviest by smoke, had not completed an estimate of the extent of loss today.

Fireman Robert Priest, of Central Station, then off duty, sounded an alarm from Box 1121, Broadway and Cedar Street. It summoned units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, the Wicks, Excelsior and Wiltwyck volunteers with Deputy Chief Glyn M. Southard in charge. Fireman Priest discovered the fire as he walked near the building.

Damage was heaviest in the basement, where off-season stock, including rubber and plastic goods, were stored. The fire started near stored Christmas decorations, spread over the basement area to shelves of footwear, and upward to floor timbers and flooring. It also spread through an opening around a heating pipe.

ury), $30.2 million; and reappropriations $4.8 million. Democrats were responsible for the major portion of the cut-back in the Republican governor's fiscal plan.

Of the total amount, $63.3 million was attributed to the Ways and Means Committee of the Democratic-controlled Assembly and $6.6 million to the Republican-controlled Senate Finance Committee. In addition, the committee's jointly recommended cuts of $23.5 million.

Except for the latter category, agreement on the reductions was said to be temporary — in the interest of passing a budget before the state's new fiscal year begins, on April 1.

to defeat the Democrat incumbent.

The debate was sponsored by Town of Esopus Republican Club at Town Hall, Port Ewen. Nearly 75 members and guests heard differing opinions on why they can win against Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Fish, a resident of Millbrook, focused his argument on the need for the large Dutchess County GOP plurality to win the November election.

Warns of Disunity
Aldrich, a resident of Chatham Center, charged a primary fight for the nomination would create party disunity.

Fish said Dutchess County gave incumbent Congressman Resnick an 11,000 vote plurality in 1964, and that it will take a Dutchess County candidate to return that area to the Republican Party. Fish saw Dutchess as the key county in the Congressional District because of its larger population.

Aldrich, on the other hand, said that the 28th Congressional District traditionally is a Republican area, and proved that it remains so in the 1965 election. He felt that if the Republican Party puts forward its best qualified candidate, it will earn the support of those Republicans and independents who voted in the Democratic Congressional column in 1964. He asked the audience to judge him on the basis of his 10 years experience in local and state government, and on the community projects he has been involved in here in the Mid-Hudson Valley. He said that although he lives in Columbia County, he identifies himself with all five counties in the 28th District, and not as the candidate of a single county.

Fish for Publicity
Both Fish and Aldrich disagreed on the topic of whether a primary for Congressmen will be good or bad for the Republican Party. Fish, who lost the Congressional District Nominating Convention by eight to two, felt the heat of a primary campaign will create the kind of

NASA Tape Action Hints Real Dangers in Critical Period

Two Are Relaxed For Pickup Calmly Eat Lunch Seated on Collar

TACHIKAWA, Japan (AP) — Astronauts David Scott and Neil Armstrong enjoyed a sunbath and a relaxed lunch as they waited for a destroyer to fish them and their Gemini spaceship out of the Western Pacific.

An air rescue pilot, Capt. John W. Maddox of Mulberry, Fla., described the scene after the Gemini 8 was brought down short of its three-day goal in space.

Both Acted Cool
Maddox, who took his big four-engine HC130 down for a close-up look, said Scott and Armstrong "were acting real cool about it all."

Parasute men from another plane out of Okinawa had parachuted into the calm Pacific near the capsule's green dye marker to fix a float collar to the spacecraft.

Maddox said the two space pilots remained inside their ship until the destroyer Mason arrived at the scene an hour and a half later. They were still wearing their space suits.

"The doors were open and they were just sitting there enjoying the sun and eating lunch," the 33-year-old pilot said.

The re-entry and recovery packet—possibly a cause of the sudden termination of the flight—was floating slightly submerged about 200 yards from the capsule, Maddox said.

"They (space officials) think this may have something to do with the problem," a debriefing officer said in reference to the re-entry and recovery packet.

The packet is the nose of the Gemini 8 capsule—the part that was stuck into the Agena when Gemini 8 was docked in space. It pops off during re-entry to let the parachutes deploy.

The pilot said that when the astronauts were lifted aboard the destroyer, they jumped out in the midst of the ship's excited crew. They shook hands with those

Astronauts Prevented Disaster in 8 Of 12 U. S. Manned Flights in Space

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight of America's 12 manned space flights have run into major problems. But the courage, skill and training of astronauts have prevented any disasters.

When Gemini 8 began to spin violently Wednesday, command pilot Neil A. Armstrong, a civilian, made a last-ditch decision to use his only remaining system of maneuvering jets to bring it under control.

Used Precious Fuel
If he had exhausted the fuel in the system, his life and the life of pilot David R. Scott, an Air Force major, could have been jeopardized as they returned to earth.

In 1961, before any American achieved orbit, Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom had to swim for his life when the hatch blew on his spacecraft at sea after it landed.

In 1962, Navy Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter was forced to steer by the horizon when a short circuit cut off the device that told him which way his Aurora 7 was pointing.

Just last August, Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. nursed Gemini 5 through 120 revolutions after it looked like a fuel pressure problem might force them down after six. If it had been unmanned, space officials said, it would never have come down.

The only manned space-flight problem that astronauts did not have a hand in dealing with was the failure of the Atlas-Agena 6 last Oct. 25.

That Agena target ship blew up before orbiting and astronauts Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford climbed out of their Gemini capsule before launch time.

The first American in orbit, John H. Glenn Jr., then a Marine lieutenant colonel, had to take partial manual control of his Friendship 7 on Feb. 20, 1962, when a small jet thruster failed.

President Johnson praised

Armstrong and Scott for having shown "remarkable courage and poise under stress." They pulled the Gemini 8 out of a spin that reached at least six revolutions a minute and brought it to a landing almost exactly in the middle of the planned landing zone.

Problems in space do not automatically mean a reverse for the space program.

Water Leak
During Cooper's first space mission—the Faith 7 flight of May 15-16, 1963—drinking water leaked into the cabin and ground stations feared that the automatic re-entry system might have been short circuited. They directed Cooper to fly the capsule manually back to earth and he became the first space-man to do so.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II had to do without malfunctioning computers as they brought Gemini 4 down last June. They followed instructions from the ground and landed safely.

Twins Take Emergency In Stride May Need Changes In Hookup Plan

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The Gemini 8 astronauts rode a destroyer toward Okinawa today, while space officials dug into the mystery of the violent mishap that brought their mission to a hair-raising end in the waters of the Pacific Ocean.

Due in Naha at 6
The destroyer Leonard F. Mason, which picked Neil Armstrong and David Scott out of the water after the first emergency landing in U.S. man-in-space history, was scheduled to put them ashore at Naha at 6 p.m. EST.

Both were reportedly to have come safely through the dangerous re-entry and abruptly terminated their scheduled three-day flight just 10 hours, 42 minutes after the blastoff.

At a morning news conference at Houston, Flight Director Gene Kranz said it will be some time before officials can say what caused Gemini to buck in space, knocking the astronauts out of their seats.

Must Review Data
The trouble which sent the spacecraft into a hair-raising spin happened when there was no voice or telemetry communication between earth and the spacecraft. The cause will not be known, Kranz said, until after an extensive review of flight data.

The astronauts were given a preliminary one-hour physical examination soon after boarding the Mason and were reported in good condition.

Appeared Calm
An air rescue pilot who flew over the Gemini as it bobbed in the calm waters of the Western Pacific said the pilots were "acting real cool" after the harrowing experience.

Armstrong and Scott had opened the spacecraft hatches, Capt. John W. Maddox, of Mesa, Ariz., said, "and they were just sitting there enjoying the sun and eating lunch."

But the troubles they experienced apparently were so dangerous that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration refused to let newsmen hear tape recordings of the astronauts' voices during the critical period when Gemini 8 was out of control 185 miles above the earth.

All In Dark: Giltuth
"None of us know what happened," Dr. Robert Giltuth, director of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center, told a post-midnight news conference today.

"But it was very serious and it took utmost effort of the crew to regain control and conduct a safe re-entry and landing."

President Johnson reported he was "greatly relieved" at the safe return of the astronauts and praised their "skill and strength."

Armstrong, a civilian, and Scott, an Air Force major, today were aboard the USS Leonard F. Mason, the destroyer that retrieved them from the Western Pacific early today.

The astronauts will be flown to Cape Kennedy Friday to tell their story to anxious officials.

Could Affect Future
What they have to say will have an important bearing on the future of the U.S. space program. The whole concept of hooking up with another satellite might have to be changed. The trouble cropped up only

Kill 275 Cong in Four Hours B52s Pound Enemy Close to Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Air Force sent a flight of B52 bombers today against a North Vietnamese regiment spotted in the D Zone jungle only 35 miles north of Saigon. Intelligence officers said it was the closest North Vietnamese regulars had been reported to the capital.

The B52s dropped their huge bomb loads only four miles ahead of thousands of U.S. and Australian foot soldiers cutting through the brush with machetes and jungle knives. As Operation Silver City on its 10th day slashed deeper into the old Communist stronghold, the Allied forces found 113 more bodies, bringing the enemy toll in a four-hour battle Wednesday to 275 killed.

90 Per Cent Regulars
An American source said two enemy wounded identified the troops as North Vietnamese regulars. One of them—a Viet Cong—said that his battalion of 400 men was 90 per cent North Vietnamese army regulars.

In the skies over North Viet Nam, U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots evaded some surface-to-air missiles and also spotted enemy planes they thought were Soviet-designed MIGs, advanced jets equal to some of the best American planes. The MIGs fled without attacking.

Plane, Pilot Lost
A U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief and its pilot were lost in a raid on a bridge at Dien Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi. Other pilots said the plane, apparently hit by conventional ground fire, plunged into a small hill.

Action picked up elsewhere. The U.S. command reported at its daily briefing: The U.S. 25th Infantry Division cracked into the Bao Trai area, 20 to 25 miles west of Saigon, in a sweep dubbed Operation Honolulu, after the jungle division's home base. Its aim is to clear the Viet Cong from the many waterways and underground networks in the sector.

Conn. Firm Is Low Bidder for Approach Road

A Connecticut construction firm was the low bidder in Albany today for construction of the western approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge at Highland, it was announced today.

A spokesman for the New York State Bridge Authority told The Freeman that Savin Brothers Inc., of Bloomfield Conn., submitted a bid for $4,757,470.40 for construction of a fraction over a mile of the approach. He said that the bid was below the estimated construction cost of $4,982,000.

The approach will eliminate the Highland Traffic Circle. The Bridge Authority spokesman said that the contract would probably be let in five or six weeks. He said that the Bridge Authority's share in the project was $1.5 million while the remainder would be financed by the State Department of Public Works.

The construction bids were opened today in Albany.

Solons Trim Rocky's Budget, OK Due Today

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's record budget was ticketed for swift passage by the Legislature today as Republican and Democratic leaders announced agreement to cut $93.4 million from the $3.98-billion fiscal program.

Both houses were expected to approve the revised budget this afternoon without any serious discord.

Details of the economy reductions negotiated by the fiscal committees were revealed only a few hours before the scheduled vote.

On an over-all basis, the committees agreed to make these cuts in these general categories:

Lions Really Roar At Patty's Night

Saugerties Lions roared in a gala St. Patrick's Night celebration Monday evening at the Flamingo Restaurant. Decorations abounded in the color green greeted Lions and their guests at one of the largest attended and most successful Saint Patrick's celebration in local Lions history.

Throughout the evening, Irish songs were sung under the leadership of song master William Farrell, accompanied by Mrs. Robert A. Schuchardt. A trio consisting of Lions Joseph Bosco on the piano, Frank Greco on bass fiddle and William Brinnier on drums played at various portions of the evening for listening and dancing.

The program was under the general chairmanship of Albert Giannotti and Ben Fein. Lion president Brinnier acted as master of ceremonies. He introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Attorney Vernon Murphy, corporation counsel of the City of Kingston.

Murphy delivered an interesting and informative address, citing some of the lore regarding Saint Patrick. Accompanied by his wife Patricia at the dinner, he also spoke of an interesting trip that they had recently taken to Ireland and emphasized the difference in the attitude of the Irish people today as contrasted to a previous trip he made to Ireland in 1933, when general gloom prevailed on the island. Murphy said the reason for the change was the simple but precious fact of "Freedom." He stressed that we who know freedom sometimes forget how important it is and how easy it can be lost. Murphy received a standing ovation from the Saugerties Lions and their guests.

The president thanked Lions Giannotti, Fein, Bosco, Greco and Farrell for their invaluable assistance which had contributed to the evening's success.

Methodists Gave $10,300 in 1965; Plan Building

A special meeting will be held Thursday 7 p. m. at Saugerties Methodist Church when trustees and members of the Commission on Education will hear the Rev. Latimer Neale, executive secretary of the N. Y. Conference Board of Education, discuss plans for a new educational building at the local church.

Need Perennials For Decorating Welcome Signs

Saugerties Society of Little Gardens met Wednesday at Saugerties Methodist Church with Mrs. T. Brendan Dooley and Mrs. Robert Finger as guests.

Mrs. Frank Greco, chairman of the Horticulture Committee, gave some timely tips on planting seeds in the spring. She said if seeds are planted in Vermiculite, they will germinate faster. If house plants need nitrogen, she recommended adding three drops of ammonia to a glass of water when watering the plants. She suggested the seed should be nicked and planted in poor soil when planting morning glories to assure more blossoms.

Mrs. John Elliott, who attended the Flower Show in New York City told members that the emphasis this year was on landscaping.

Mrs. Morris Rosenblum of the Civic Beautification Committee asked for contributions of perennials to be used as plantings around the "Welcome to Saugerties" signs at the entrance to town. Anyone who has any perennials to donate should contact Mrs. Rosenblum.

Mrs. John Elliott, chairman of the local annual Flower Show, slated June 8, announced that a children's category in junior horticulture has been added to this year's show.

Timely Topic for the day was given by Mrs. Norman Bolinder, who stressed the need for protection of beneficial birds such as swallows, wrens and blue birds. The death rate for these birds is high today and many can be saved by putting up bird houses for them by the end of March. These should be located away from the house.

Members also saw slides of Wild Flowers for All Seasons and enjoyed refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Richard Geuss, 17 Lafayette Street, with Mrs. Roy Helmsmoortel in charge of refreshments. Any member who will be unable to attend is asked to phone Mrs. Helmsmoortel.

Says Teacher Admits Setting Fire to Car

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Suburban Greece police said a 23-year-old schoolteacher admitted setting his 1965 automobile afire because he "had an uncontrollable urge to do something bad."

Donald Miller, 23, of Albion, also told police that his earlier statement that thugs attacked him and set the fire was a hoax.

Police said Miller told them he had had the uncontrollable urge to do something bad many times before, but that he had always been able to stop it.

"But this time I couldn't," he added. Miller admitted to the hoax after police confronted him with what they said, "were holes in his story."

He was arraigned Wednesday before Police Justice George Mier Jr. of Greece on a charge of second-degree arson. After waiving a preliminary hearing, he was remanded to Monroe County Jail pending grand jury action.

Bills Introduced In Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican-controlled Senate weighed the legislative fate today of a bill that would authorize adoption of a child without regard to religion.

The controversial measure was passed by a narrow margin Wednesday in the Democratic-run Assembly, over the objections of many Republicans and Roman Catholics of both parties.

The bill would relax the provisions of existing law, which requires courts to match the religious affiliation of the child and the adoptive parents "when practicable."

Debate on the adoption bill generated the most excitement in the Legislature Wednesday as the lawmakers cleared the decks for action on Gov. Rockefeller's $3.98-billion budget. These were among the other highlights in legislative activity.

MENTALLY RETARDED — A welfare worker, psychologist or educator could be appointed director of one of the state's nine schools for the mentally retarded, under terms of legislation approved by the Assembly.

HEALTH EDUCATION — A plan to spend $250,000 to inform school-age children of the effects of cigarette-smoking and drug-addiction won the endorsement of Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges. Brydges said he would seek support for the program from the Assembly's Democratic leadership.

PERSONAL INJURY — The Senate passed a measure that would require payment of interest on sums awarded by juries in personal-injury suits. The bill calls for an interest rate of 6 per cent, which would be computed on the award from the date the person being sued received a summons.

Discussion of the religious factor in the adoption bill inspired vigorous arguments in the Assembly, where the bill won approval, 91-58.

Proponents argued that a new approach was needed to help place hundreds of babies held in temporary foster homes or orphanages for lack of prospective adoptive parents with identical religious backgrounds.

The bill would allow a child's natural mother to suggest the religion in which she wants the child to be reared or to state under oath that she is "indifferent" about the religious affiliation.

If she takes the "indifferent" stand, her child could be awarded to adoptive parents of any persuasion.

Existing law requires courts to try to see that a child up for adoption is entrusted to the care of adoptive parents whose religion is the same as his own.

At the same time, the measure would strike out the present stricture completely if the adoptive parent were a step-parent.

In that case, for example, if a man married a widow and wanted to adopt her children, a court would not have to consider his religious background.

Several Roman Catholic members of the Assembly objected to that provision on the ground that an adopted child could be stripped of his own religion and forced to accept a new one without having a voice in the matter.

Opponents also insisted that the "when practicable" clause in existing law already provided some latitude in placing a child with foster parents whose religion differs from his.

Democrats, including some Roman Catholics, argued, however, that courts seldom depart from the policy of matching a child and foster parents of identical religions.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Today is St. Patrick's Day, the anniversary of the patron saint of Ireland. This Saint was well loved everywhere and many legends have grown up in connection with his career.

One of the better known of all legends is how he was responsible for the Shamrock becoming the familiar Irish emblem. One day a group of his followers came to him and admitted that it was difficult for them to believe in the doctrine of the Holy Trinity. Plucking a leaf from the Shamrock, St. Patrick held it before them, bidding them to behold the living example of this "three-in-one." The simple beauty of this explanation convinced them and from that day the Shamrock has been revered throughout Ireland.

In observance of St. Patrick's Day and as a salute to Ireland, green is displayed everywhere and signifies no creed or race as many other nationalities join in the celebration.

Primarily a religious holiday, special church services are held and there are numerous social functions.

St. Patrick overcame many perils of his time and made many friends. The Irish look back to him with great affection because his courage and cheerfulness have been handed on to so many of his followers.

Russia claims to have discovered a gold deposit bigger than the Klondike. But those anxious to make a rush for it may have trouble getting a Kremlin okay.

SAFER TIRES COMING

One of the best pieces of driving-safety news to come down the pike recently is the Armstrong Rubber Company announcement that it is commercially producing auto tires reinforced with fiberglass. Other companies probably will soon be following suit. If the full potential of such construction is utilized, safer and more durable tires than those now on most cars will be the rule.

Most tire companies, including all the major ones, have for some years been trying to come up with a feasible means of using fiberglass for reinforcement. There is good reason for this. In road tests, it is reported, the new Armstrong tires lasted 40,000 to 50,000 miles as compared with 20,000 to 25,000 miles for tires of similar construction but without the fiberglass. A 30 per cent increase in strength and resistance to impact also is claimed for the fiberglass-reinforced tire.

It is thus almost certain that, as soon as possible, other companies will use this material. Even when tires with this stronger reinforcement are generally on the market, however, their mere availability will not assure that all cars will run on safe tires. There are excellent tires on the market now. But many motorists are unwilling to pay a premium price, and some of the lower grade tires simply do not meet standards of load-bearing and wear. The trick will be to improve standards so that no car will be on the road with tires inadequate for the demands made on them.

Democrats resent GOP charges of "scandalous misuse of funds involving fraud and inefficiency" in the poverty war. That inefficiency charge really hurts.

SUMMER TIME PROGRESS

The daylight time bill approved by the House Commerce Committee contains one rather controversial feature. This is the provision that would automatically put all 50 states on summer daylight time unless their legislatures voted otherwise. This has aroused considerable protest.

The alternative, allowing the states to remain on standard time unless their legislatures vote to join in on daylight time, is even less satisfactory. This would serve to prolong the present summer confusion, which is the main target of corrective nationwide legislation.

Still, it is gratifying that Congress is at last off dead center with regard to the matter of daylight time. There is no reason to think that a fair solution of this nagging

"LET'S YOU AND HIM FIGHT"

I know a Devil's Advocate. His theory of the Vietnamese War is that it is kept going by Soviet Russia in hopes that the United States can be provoked into a major conflict with Red China with a resultant destruction of Mao Tse-tung's embryonic nuclear capacity by the U. S. Air Force. By artfully pushing a "let's you and him fight" strategy, the Soviets would use Lyndon Johnson as their cat's paw in removing the danger of atomic power from their inner Asian borders, where it is a latent menace to all those steel mills and munition plants which Russia originally moved behind the Urals to place them out of reach of Adolf Hitler.

The point made by the Devil's Advocate is that we are accommodating Moscow by fighting in Vietnam in the first place, and that we only serve to increase the accommodation every time we "escalate" the conflict.

The only trouble with this theorizing, as I find it, is that it assumes that Mao Tse-tung is stupid. I personally think the war in Vietnam will go on and on until it is won or lost on the ground in South Vietnam with no confrontation of major powers. My reason for thinking this is based on the evidence that the Russians, the Red Chinese, and Lyndon Johnson are all devotees of the "let's you and him fight" strategy. The Red Chinese obviously hope that the United States, by mining Haiphong harbor and blowing up some Soviet ships, will find itself in an ugly snarl with Moscow. Meanwhile, Mao Tse-tung's spokesmen have been trying to shame the Soviets by taunting them with "collaboration" with the "American imperialists" in a "Khrushchevism without Khrushchev" sell-out of Marxism. As for Lyndon Johnson, his "peace emissaries" have been doing their best to inveigle the Russians into taking "parallel action" with the United States to split the North Vietnamese apart from the Red Chinese who, as an Asian "colossus of the North," would imperil North Vietnam's sovereignty. Success in this would really make Soviet Russia the main enemy of Red China in Asia.

What we have, then, is a three-way bluffing game indulged in by three masters of the "let's you and him fight" strategy. So who is going to fight a really big war?

What must particularly annoy Lyndon Johnson is that so many in his own Democratic Party do not understand the nature of the game. The disidents keep playing into the hands of our enemies by constantly inciting the Soviet Union to do something that will bring either Red China or Soviet Russia or both into a war that would end with a big atomic blow-off. By vocally mistaking Lyndon Johnson's "let's you and him fight" psychology for something far more bellicose, the "paceniks" Democrats make such a loud noise that they encourage the Soviets and the Red Chinese in judging that the peace movement in the United States is far stronger than it actually is. The Soviets and the Red Chinese are misled into thinking that they can win the local war in South Vietnam by propaganda successes inside America. The Red "let's you and him fight" strategy has not succeeded with Johnson, but it has provoked domestic strife inside the Democratic Party. The Moslems, the Fulbrights, the Churches, and the Grueninges have been too dense to see that they have been gulled.

Johnson is from ranch country Texas, but he is not a rube. The rubes in this case are the sons of the rich who flock to the DuBois clubs on affluent campuses. They are our Rhodes Scholar politicians. They are our ministers and university chaplains who think it is more idealistic to belong to groups organized by those who believe in murderous class warfare than to work for our timid business corporations and live in the suburbs. They don't know a "let's you and him fight" President when they see one.

Well, the war will continue on the ground in South Vietnam. We can safely escalate it a bit, to the end of cutting the enemy's sources and avenues of supply in North Vietnam. We can win in this slogging, unexciting fashion — and the three "let's you and him fight" major powers will still be making faces at each other when it's all over.

Cobalt Treatments Cannot Cause Cancer of Breasts

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Doctors have diagnosed my wife as having fibrocystic disease of the breast, recurrent carcinoma of the breast and carcinoma of the breast with metastases. Are any of these related to cancer? Could cobalt treatments result in cancer?

A—Fibrocystic mastitis is an inflammation of the breast which is not malignant, but should be watched because it may become cancerous. Carcinoma is one type of breast cancer and "recurrent" implies a return of the cancer in an area where it has been removed. Metastasis is the process of spreading to another part of the body, often far removed from the original site. This is the characteristic that makes cancer so vicious and so hard to cure. A breast cancer may metastasize to the spine and other bones. Since cobalt treatments are given in an effort to kill cancer, they cannot be said to have caused it.

Q—What treatment do you recommend for a man whose breasts are much larger than average for a male?

A—All persons have both male and female hormones in their blood, but in men the male hormones predominate and in women the female. Enlargement of the breasts in men may occur at puberty, but this is associated with an increase in the pituitary hormone rather than the female hormone. In most young men this enlargement subsides in about two years. It may persist, or at least be more noticeable, in men who are obese. If the condition first occurs after puberty or persists after a man reaches age 21, a tumor in one of the hormone-producing glands should be suspected. If such a tumor is found, it should be promptly removed. Treatment with hormone antagonists and other drugs has been disappointing. The only other treatment is plastic surgery.

Q—For the past five years I have been taking Compazine twice a day for high blood pressure. Will this cause cataracts? Is Compazine related to phenothiazine? Is there a safe substitute for this drug?

A—Prochlorperazine (Compazine) is a phenothiazine derivative. It is an effective tranquilizer but, whether given for this purpose or for high blood pressure or both, it is wise to substitute other drugs from time to time. There is a wide selection and your doctor should make this choice. I have not seen any reports of cataract resulting from the use of the phenothiazine group of drugs, but they should not be given to anyone with glaucoma.

Rep. John Buchanan of Alabama, who is a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was quite right in saying that the committee's Ku Klux Klan hearings had set forth "a sordid picture of bigotry, hate, burnings, floggings and violence." Whatever small credit the Klan may still have had among decent men at the start of the hearings several months ago must surely have vanished under the white light of publicity.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

Some U.S. government men who analyze these things say the outlook in Indonesia now is for a gradual comeback of the pro-Peking Communist party, unless the army and Moslems revolt.

Indonesia's Sukarno may not patch relations with Mao Tse-tung's Red China soon, but his foreign policy in the months ahead is expected to match Peking's anti-West stand paragraph by paragraph.

THE INDOONESIAN COMMUNIST PARTY went down hard for its part in the abortive coup last October, in which six top Indonesian army generals were murdered. The army and other groups, in an effort to wipe out the pro-Peking Communist apparatus, killed an estimated 100,000 Reds.

After some further bungles by Red China, it was widely predicted the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist party was through.

But Sukarno stepped in to divide the army and navy (already split into cliques), the Moslems and other nationalists.

Already, as a result of this careful Sukarno maneuvering, anti-Red groups in Indonesia are now probably in a weaker position than before the Communist setback.

Sukarno eliminated Gen. Abdul Nasution and a body of other anti-Communists from his cabinet and added Peking-Communist sympathizers.

Meanwhile, new information arriving here indicates the purge of 100,000 Communists missed large numbers of the powerful Red underground.

IF INDOONESIAN HISTORY is a precedent, the Communists aren't expected to come out into the open soon. Instead, they'll likely infiltrate and attempt to dominate other political parties.

Most likely candidate for education and training. Officials believed this would build a body of good will and understanding that would keep Indonesia from swinging too far toward the Communists.

It appeared for awhile after the abortive coup that this U.S. policy had paid off and that the pro-Peking group in the cabinet might be replaced by nationalists.

What went wrong isn't clear. What seems likely is that the United States didn't do a good job in anticipating which leaders would be strong enough when the chips were down.

other groups protested the Sukarno cabinet move. But they refused to buck him personally. They left him in power.

SOMEWHERE IN ALL THIS there is a lesson to be learned. The United States for years has been bringing potential Indonesian leaders here for education and training.

Government Controls May Be Necessary to Halt Inflation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—hardly any body wants to see wages or prices controlled by the government, and the Administration feels that it can manage the economy without taking such a step, but it may nevertheless prove to be the only way to prevent the economic strain in the United States from getting worse.

The American people have experienced wage-price control three times — in World War I and World War II and during the Korean War. Up to now it has been assumed that the Viet Nam war wouldn't have a big enough repercussion to require such controls. With the maintenance, however, of a large military expedition in Southeast Asia and the substantial increases in appropriations being made by Congress and more in prospect for war purposes, a serious economic squeeze is currently developing.

Market Reactions
Already the stock market is reflecting the uncertainties that have arisen due to the war situation as well as the economic expansion which preceded it.

There are differences of opinion as to how dangerous the present inflation trend is going to be, and hopes are expressed in official circles here that restraints still can be applied without formal controls.

While the Administration has been relying on "voluntary" restraints on both wages and prices, no formula has yet been advanced that has proved effective. The so-called "guidesposts" or "guidelines" for wages and prices have been repeatedly transgressed by both management and labor. Only this week George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, urged union leaders in the electrical industry to ignore the 3.2 per cent "guidepost" for pay increases which has been recommended by President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisors.

Concurrently, price rises have appeared in several categories, and the Administration seems to be powerless to prevent them. This is the kind of situation that could lead to Congressional action.

May Seek Agreement
The Administration, of course, may first seek an agreement between management and labor to establish an informal council to pass judgment on wage and price increases. This would be an extension of the informal arrangements which have hitherto been left either to the President or to the Secretary of Labor to handle.

The problem is getting further complicated, and a board of some kind would have to be set up to deal with the question if inflation is to be slowed down.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The other day I mentioned a book called The Story of Mr. Circus by Charles T. Hunt Sr. as told to John C. Cloutman, published in 1954 by The Record Press, Rochester, N. H. This book is at the Kingston Library.

It is all about Kingston, as the Hunt circus used to winter here for years, and the Hunt family are from Kingston, and relatives still live here. Charles Hunt and his family ran their own circus for some 60 years and known all over the states, although showed on the eastern coast.

Quoting here and there from the book, for instance he writes: "We had a harness maker in Kingston who went over our harness every winter, repairing it and replacing with new wherever necessary." I wonder who the harness maker was. Also Mr. Hunt gives a fine history of the roads over which he traveled over a half a century, sometimes with horse and wagon going some two and a half miles an hour.

He would leave Kingston and go up and down the side of the Hudson to the various small towns, no matter how small. He writes in part: "In years gone by the farmers used to pay their road taxes by working on the roads. . . In the spring and fall rains they used to drive through mud from six to eighteen inches deep."

He describes the corduroy roads thus: "The lumber companies used to make what was known as corduroy roads, cutting a path through the woods and laying small trees side by side to make a passage over soft or swampy sections. After the trees had been there for several years they rotted and when our heavy circus wagons hit them they would break through. This meant that you had to jack up the wheels of the wagon, put on extra teams and continue until you hit another such obstacle." In the early 1890's they never lacked for help, paid $15 per month, plus board and were able to get better help than in 1954.

They had to depend on the country blacksmith and country wagon maker or wheelwright for keeping their wagons in repair. They had one problem, though, when the townspeople knew a circus was coming to town, they all closed their shops at noon and all the tradesmen took the day off. The circus had to either pay double or better than customary prices, or on some occasions they had to take these show horses.

sions they had to agree to take the blacksmith and his family with the circus to the next town as guests so that they might see the circus performance.

Mrs. Hagenlocker of Kingston called me that she read the column on the Hunt circus and he was her Uncle Charlie, and so we had a nice talk. She is the former Miss Tronson and worked for over 40 years in an uptown local bank. She told me that Charlotte Hunt, oldest of Charlie Hunt's children and her husband had a well known chimp act on the road, and that they were down in Florida. Charlie's family also have a motel in Florida, and a cabin cruiser and are still in the entertainment business.

In the book they describe how they traveled at night because it was cool as the circus performed in the heat of the summer. They used country boys as teamsters as they knew about horses. After the teams were matched up, they put the slower ones at the head of the line and the more spirited ones were left to follow. That is why the average speed for the circus wagon train was about two and a half miles an hour, it saved the horses. He tells about the six horse team of heavy horses he bought from Jacob Ruppert Brewing Co., the pole pair weighed 2,200 and they had to buy the large harness to go with them, and what problems they had with these show horses.

Future Shudders As China's Red Dragon Grows Stronger

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everybody watches the Red dragon, the Red dragon looks in the mirror and likes what it sees, and the future shudders.

All through these past few months in the debate about the war in Viet Nam there has been one overriding concern: that Red China might step in, involving the United States in a massive land war in Asia.

Assures Restraint

The Johnson administration, to calm fears that through any helter-skelter tactics it may stumble into war with Red China, has tried to spread assurance that it would conduct the Vietnamese war with restraint.

This puts the United States in the position of fighting a war with one hand tied behind its back. But the Johnson administration has to worry about Red China and American public opinion, too.

This business of keeping the Americans guessing is an inexpensive weapon for the Chinese since they know, as President Johnson knows, the last thing this country wants is a land war with a nation with 700 million people, like Red China.

It could fight the war at home. The United States could never match it in manpower and would have to transport men and weapons half way around the world to fight at all.

GE Plans Expansion

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—The General Electric Co. plans a multi-million dollar addition to its Large Generator and Motor Department despite "a lack of cooperation in some quarters toward improving productivity."

Vice presidents Donald E. Craig and Oscar L. Dunn announced the expansion Wednesday and said the addition would increase the Department by 200,000 square feet.

Complete details were not disclosed.

The United States could, of course, demolish Red China and its people, by using some of its nuclear weapons. That might be even more hazardous.

At that point Russia, even though it has split with Red China, might feel compelled to assist it, get into the war, and use its own nuclear arsenal against the United States. The result would be chaos for mankind.

But the Red Chinese have even a better weapon than making the Americans worry about a war with Peking now. That's time.

Red China has suffered a number of recent reverses in its zeal to spread communism: in the East, in its split with Russia and Communist Cuba, and in Africa.

Predicts Potential

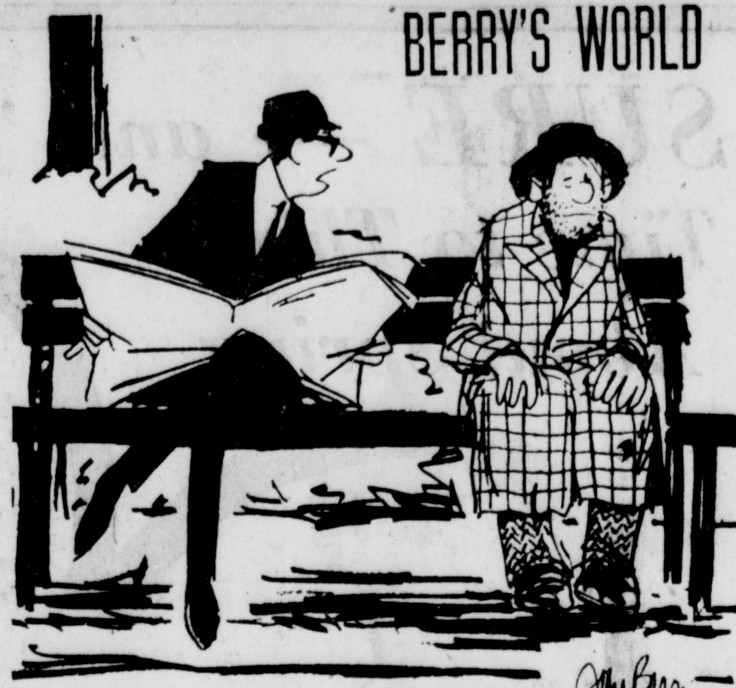

But it can endure these. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara recently predicted that within two or three years Red China would be capable of launching a nuclear attack of its own on countries within 700 miles of China.

Those nuclear weapons will be the test form of blackmail against its neighbors that Red China ever had. The whole picture of Asia may begin to change then.

McNamara further said it would be a decade or more before Red China had the ability to make a nuclear attack on the United States. The Red Chinese might well consider it worthwhile to wait until then before truly beginning to move, whether or not it meant war with the West.

By then, if the United States faced nuclear destruction from Red China, it might be a lot less willing than now to rush to the aid of Asian neighbors who, without American support, would be gobbled up by the Chinese.

The best hope this country and the non-Communist nations of Asia have for indefinite peace is that in 10 years or so the present aged, rigid Red leaders of China will no longer be in power and that their younger successors will have a more reasonable attitude toward their neighbors and the world.

"Haven't you gotten the word? ... with 'the new economics' there can't be any more depressions!"

DeMolay Marking 47th Birthday, Has Local Chapter

It's been more than 650 years since Jacques DeMolay, the last Grand Master of the medieval Knights Templar, died as a martyr to truth and fidelity, but today the ideals for which he gave his life are being perpetuated by young men the world over who are members of the Order of DeMolay.

Nearly three million youths that have been inducted into the Order since its founding have added new lustre and meaning to DeMolay's name by dedicating themselves, as he did, to the virtues of reverence, loyalty and chivalry.

The 47th anniversary of the founding of DeMolay is being observed this week.

Colonial City Chapter of DeMolay meets regularly at Masonic Temple, 31 Albany Avenue, with George W. Chase of King's Highway as Chapter Dad.

Jacques DeMolay has provided a historic heritage for the youth organization. In the 14th Century as the Knights Templars grew in might, prestige and wealth, and the popularity of the crusaders declined, the Order incurred the jealousy and enmity of Phillip the Fair, King of France.

Phillip ordered the arrest of DeMolay and the other Templars and had their properties and riches confiscated. Failing through torture to get DeMolay to reveal the identity of other leaders and the location of supposedly hidden treasures, Phillip had him burned at the stake in Paris when DeMolay refused to denounce the Order.

Proving that fate sometimes has a hand in many things, some 605 years later, on the anniversary of the death of DeMolay, nine Kansas City, Mo., boys met in the office of Frank S. Land, urging him on his idea of forming a new youth group.

The young boys liked the idea of organizing a club that would give them the inspiration and guidance that no other organization offered.

As they discussed their desires and needs, it was mentioned that a name must be selected. Whereupon, the boys asked Land to recite some names that would be in keeping with their ideals.

When Land mentioned DeMolay and who he was, the name was like magic to the boys. They liked the sound of it and what it stood for and they immediately clamored for its adoption. Land, being prudent and thoughtful, suggested that they think it over for a few days along with all the other names mentioned.

A few days later, the enthusiasm for the name DeMolay was till apparent in each boy, and thus it was that the new youth group was named the Order of DeMolay.

Little did this beginning nucleus know that their organization would soon spread like wildfire throughout the world. It now numbers nearly three million active and Senior DeMolays and more than 2,500 chapters operate in the United States, its territories, and foreign countries.

Many of its Senior DeMolays are found high in the ranks of leadership, serving as Senators, Congressmen, cabinet members, governors, generals and business leaders.

The age bracket for belonging to the Order of DeMolay is 14 to 21 years, with those passing 21 becoming Senior DeMolays. The Order is open to any boy who meets the conditions of being a normal, upright young citizen.

Activities of the Order of DeMolay range in scope from athletic endeavors to conducting traffic safety campaigns, church services and performing charitable and community service projects.

It is with humble and modest pride that DeMolay members can point to the thousands of leaders today in all walks of life who started up the ladder of success in a DeMolay chapter room.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON, AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporations are flooding the mails with annual reports these days. And their legions of owners can indulge in one of America's most satisfying pastimes — deciding who's the biggest.

But a company that's tops when viewed from one angle may not be from another.

Note Conflicts

The biggest money maker, for example, is well down the list of companies with the largest assets. And at least a million more persons prefer to own stock in the company that's the runner-up in profits than to hold shares of the corporation that's top dog in total sales or revenues.

The annual see-saw on who is the biggest money maker already has been won. General Motors takes the title for the second straight year. With a record $2,125,606,440 of profits in 1965 it made $329 million more after taxes than did runner-up American Telephone & Telegraph with $1,796,094,000. Jersey Standard Oil was third with $1,035,000,000.

But the phone company can claim to be the biggest of all if the measure is total assets. It now has $40,388,648,000, up nearly $10 billion from 1964. AT&T also is far ahead of GM, whose assets are $11,478,546,590. And the auto giant probably trails the oil company, which hasn't reported yet for 1965, but had $12,489,565,000 in assets at the end of 1964.

These top money makers in the auto and oil industries are far below the leading banks and insurance companies when it comes to assets. Metropolitan Life counted $21,398,602,000 at the start of 1964 and Prudential $21,015,885,000.

$16 Billion Assets

The Bank of America reported assets of $16,528,957,604 at the end of 1965 for fourth place. Chase Manhattan, New York, was fifth with $15,331,407,583, and First National City Bank, New York, sixth with $13,976,787,000.

Still another measure of bigness is the total of sales or revenues. Here GM is the champ, as in profits, with sales of $20,733,982,295 in 1965. Jersey Standard reports $12,725,000,000 in revenues, and the phone company $11,061,783,000.

Sears Roebuck's latest figures are around $7 billion, while the A&P grocery chain tops $5 billion.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:
When you are cutting net, place a small eraser, foam or knitting needle guard on the tip of the bottom blade of your scissors, they won't catch on the net.
A Reader

A heap of hugs for this gem! If only I had known about it several months ago when I was cutting miles and miles of nylon net to make hats!

We pulled the eraser out of a pencil, stuck it on the tip of the bottom blade of the scissors, and cut along, slick as a whistle with nary a snag!

It also works wonderfully when cutting out chiffon or other flimsy materials.

And another terrific bonus is that the rubber tip on the scissors prevents scratching your dining room table, formica table, or what have you.

Bless you, bless you for sharing this hint with the rest of us gals.

I was putting up new, heavy drapes in the bedroom, and found I was out of hooks, and the drapes were needed immediately.

As a temporary measure, I got my baby's extra diaper pins and used them instead of hooks. They worked wonderfully.

Linda L. DeWolf

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever hastily scribble down a telephone message in ink on a paper you later discovered you needed—without the message?

I found that putting adhesive-backed tape over the writing, and peeling it off, lifts off the lettering, and is quicker and neater than an eraser.

ACRYLIC PILE SCULPTURED BROADLOOM

This Acrylic Pile sculptured broadloom masterpiece is a personal favorite of ours that we almost hate to see going at a price so shamefully low. But that's our worry, not yours. We've simply got to remove the remaining stock to make room for incoming merchandise. It's a thick, heavy, wonderfully luxurious carpet with an embossed, random sheared, three-dimensional acrylic fiber pile that shrugs off stains and footprinting. And wears magnificently. There's a nice selection of colors: Antique Gold, Rosewood, Surf Green, Red, Avocado, Mellow Gold, Bronze Olive, Caramel, Blue. Better hurry over early in the week before the best choices are snapped up. Or before we change our mind.

Group Proposes Congress Enact Standby Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House Economic Committee has proposed that Congress enact a standby tax increase but finds the experts divided on whether the boost should actually be put into effect.

Economists Divided

Four noted economists split, two against two, in testimony Wednesday on whether taxes should be raised at once to fight inflation. Three of them emphasized that despite some overheating the price pot is not yet boiling.

The witnesses disagreed also on some details of what taxes should be changed, how, and by how much. But all said an income tax rise should be included, and all held that the spade-work should be done now for an anti-inflation tax law which might never be used.

The hearings continue today.

While a subcommittee headed by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., received testimony Wednesday, the full committee issued its formal report evaluating the President's annual economic message to Congress.

The Democratic majority — whose findings were disputed almost all the way down the line by the Republican committee members — recommended that:

1. A standby tax program "should be designed and enacted immediately with a provision that it should come into effect whenever Congress passes, and the President signs, a joint resolution bringing it into operation."

By the joint resolution technique it would be possible to write new tax rates into law in a single day, lawmakers said, instead of the two or more months normally needed.

2. The 7 per cent tax credit for business investment in new equipment and machinery should be suspended immediately. Enacted in 1962 to encourage plant modernization, the device has encouraged record-shattering industrial outlays.

3. The extraordinary exuberance indicated by investment programs "is one of the major inflationary threats of this year," the committee said.

3. The costs of the military buildup for Viet Nam should thus be covered by raising tax revenues instead of curtailing federal outlays for civilian programs.

The committee thus went even beyond President Johnson's request in his economic message that Congress prepare basic tax studies to "permit quick decisions and prompt action" to raise or lower taxes as a counter to either inflation or recession.

house may seek to restore reductions made by the other house."

The largest single cut was made in an appropriation that Rockefeller requested for construction work on the East Hudson Parkway system. The Democrats insisted on trimming $30 million from the $38-million allocated by the governor as an advance to the parkway authority.

As the Legislature prepared to vote on the budget, there were these other developments:

— The Assembly approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would permit adoptions without regard to the religion of the child involved or the prospective parents.

— Assembly approval was given also to a measure that would permit Puerto Ricans who moved to New York to vote in state and national elections here, provided they had a sixth-grade education in any Puerto Rican school.

— Assembly sponsors of the divorce-law reform bill sought to bolster its chances of passage by adding at least 30 co-sponsors to the measure. The bill would require 83 votes in that house.

Leaders of the politically split Legislature put the finishing touches to their budget-cutting agreement Wednesday and slapped a "rush" tag on the legislation.

Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges asked the printers to return the amended bills in time for a vote this afternoon.

Brydges and Travia were said to be eager to complete legislative action on the revised budget before any serious session could develop over the economy reductions.

They agreed to restore many of the appropriations deleted on a temporary basis, after the Legislature had cleared the budget hurdle. This can be done through amendments or special bills offered later in the legislative session.

While the amended bills were dispatched to the printers, the chairmen of the Legislature's fiscal committees — the men who negotiated the budget cuts — insisted they could not supply details of the reductions or even a total figure until sometime today.

Sources close to the legislative leadership reported, however, that the over-all reduction would approach $100 million.

Democrats were responsible for the bulk of the cuts, including a $38-million deletion in construction funds for the East Hudson River Parkway system. This was the largest single reduction.

Rockefeller was kept apprised — by Republican legislators — of the revisions in his proposed spending plan for the 1966-67 fiscal year, which begins April 1.

He was said to be undisturbed by the cutback in his spending requests — less than 2 per cent of the total.

The Republican governor said Tuesday that he did not believe the budget reductions would work any serious damage to his fiscal program.

Upstate Marine Killed

RENSSELAER, N. Y. (AP)—Marine P. Raymond Ranelucci Jr., 19, of suburban Deerpark, was killed Tuesday in action in Viet Nam, his parents were notified Wednesday.

Ranelucci, who had been an athlete at St. John's Academy, recently wrote to a nun at the academy:

"I am glad to be over here. Someone has to do the job, and I am proud to be one of those persons."

Mrs. Lane Is Fair

Mrs. Aldeane Lane, 37, Stone Ridge, who was injured Saturday in a traffic accident on Old Kings Highway that claimed the life of her husband, Frank Jr., 34, was reported in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital. Lane was killed when his car skidded out of control during a snowstorm and crashed into a tree about four miles south of Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties.

Why We Say--

JACK FROST

A DWARF: We refer to the winter cold as Jack Frost in allusion to a Scandinavian dwarf who had a little red nose and face. According to popular belief, this little dwarf would bite people on the cheeks and nose during cold weather, accounting for their red faces.

Man Hurt, Another Cited After Crash

One man was injured and another was cited for following too close as the result of a two-car collision which occurred at 5:40 p. m. Wednesday on Route 209, Town of Kerhonkson.

State Police Sergeant Donald Paulson of Ellenville said Sidney Chernick, 50, Kerhonkson, was driving north on the highway and attempting a left turn when a car driven by John M. Oakes, 62, of 42½ North Main Street, Ellenville, was in collision with the rear of Chernick's sedan.

Chernick complained of a whiplash of the neck. Troopers cited Oakes for following too close. The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Herbert Poppel, Town of Wawarsing.

Pool Planned In Olive Town

Bids for a swimming pool for the Town of Olive will be opened at the town board meeting Tuesday, April 5, at 8 p. m. in the town hall.

A public hearing on the proposed pool was held Tuesday night at the town hall with a good attendance of taxpayers from the seven hamlets. All of the town board members and most of the Youth Recreation Commission members were present.

Supervisor Lester Davis gave the facts and figures on the proposed project. The sum of $25,000 is allotted in the budget to cover the cost of the pool con-explained also.

After much discussion, a show of hands vote was taken of the 37 present.

All but two who abstained from voting, cast votes of approval. Uses of the pool were provided.

At a special meeting of the town board immediately after the hearing it was decided to release specifications and advertise for public bids on the proposed swimming pool.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Philip B. Heymann has been named acting security and consular affairs administrator, says the State Department.

Heymann, 33, succeeds Abba P. Schwartz who resigned last week after charging that the department began a proposed re-half an hour after they achieved the first linkup with another satellite.

Space Officials Probe Hair-Raising

At 6:30 p.m. EST, command pilot Armstrong climaxed a brilliant space chase by gently nudging the Gemini 8 nose into a funnel-like docking collar of a 26-foot-long Agena space vehicle.

"It is really a smoothie," Armstrong said when the docking was completed.

Elation Short Lived
But his elation was short lived.

Mission directors at the control center in Houston, Tex., suddenly were jolted out of their seats when tracking data indicated the joined spaceships were rolling.

"It took off in roll and yaw," Armstrong reported.

This quote was passed on to newsmen by Flight Director John Hodge. But he and other officials said they could not let reporters hear the full tale because the tone of the voices and what the astronauts said might be misinterpreted.

"Until we know what the sequence of events are, we don't want to release the tape," said Operations Director Christopher C. Kraft. "Just because they said there was a problem with the No. 8 thruster does not mean this is so. We want to look at all the data and then try to decide what went wrong."

Here's what the data now available indicates:

What Data Indicates
Armstrong and Scott were preparing to make some maneuvers, using small Agena control jets to yaw the coupled craft. Purpose was to study resulting vibrations and their effect on the joined vehicles.

For some reason, there was a violent sideways movement, then the spaceships started to spin at a rate of about once every 10 seconds.

During this period, Armstrong's heart rate pulsed up to 150 beats a minute and Scott's to 135. Both normally register in the 70s. Armstrong managed to control the craft sufficiently to disconnect and back away from the Agena, which carried about 4,000 pounds of potentially dangerous fuel.

The Agena then stabilized, but the Gemini resumed its rolling motion and went out of control. Armstrong was unable to operate his main engines to stop the motion. He activated a set of 16 thrusters that are normally used only for re-entry and was able to stabilize after wrestling with the problem for 30 minutes.

Trouble in Fifth Orbit
Gemini mission rules make it mandatory that the spacecraft return to earth as swiftly as possible once the re-entry jets are used. This is because continued use would deplete the fuel supply of the only system available for controlling the space ship during the vital re-entry.

The trouble occurred during the fifth orbit, as Gemini 8 was entering a series of global revolutions that would take it away from main recovery areas.

Recovery officials decided that a landing in the Western Pacific during orbit No. 7 would offer the fastest recovery.

Computers calculated the time to fire the retro-rockets, and Armstrong fired them with a hitch as Gemini 8 sailed high over Africa.

Suspenseful 32 Minutes

Then began a suspenseful 32-minute period during which the astronauts made a fiery dash back through the atmosphere, skimming over Arabia, India and Red China. There are no Gemini tracking stations within range of this path and thus no communication with the pilots during the descent.

Recovery forces steamed toward the landing zone 500 miles east southeast of Okinawa.

An Air Force C54 rescue plane was over the area when Gemini 8 floated down on its red and orange parachute splashdown at 10:23 p.m. or 12:23 p.m. local time, in calm seas.

Await Hour on Safety

Because of communications difficulties, it was an hour later before the world knew whether the astronauts were safe.

The destroyer Mason picked up the astronauts at 1:30 a.m. EST. The capsule was retrieved a few minutes later. Armstrong and Scott were reported in good physical condition by a medical technician aboard the ship.

NASA officials said that until they have a chance to compare telemetry data and talk with the astronauts they will not know what caused the violent Gemini actions.

Gilruth said that preparations would continue as planned for the Gemini 9 flight, now set for May, "while we are expending every effort to find the cause of the Gemini 8 occurrence. So when the results of this flight become available we'll be as far along as possible with Gemini 9."

The four remaining flights in the Gemini program call for hookups with an Agena. This is a technique that must be perfected before man goes to the moon.

Space Stroll Wiped Out
If Gemini 8 should show that there are major problems in joining two spacecraft, major changes might have to be made.

Wiped out by the sudden return to earth was Scott's planned record space walk. He was to have stepped outside for a record 2½ hours today to determine how well man can maneuver and work while functioning as a human satellite. The flight was to have lasted three days, covering 40 orbits.

Observers shuddered when the thought occurred that Scott was to have been outside Gemini 8 while the two were docked and that Armstrong had planned to disconnect and back away during this period.

The emergency landing halted what had been a flawless flight. An Atlas-Agena rocket had blasted off from Cape Kennedy right on time at 10 a.m. to propel the Agena into a perfect 185-mile-high orbit. A Titan 2 followed exactly on schedule 101 minutes later to drill Gemini 8 into space.

The pursuit was on. With Armstrong at the controls, Gemini 8 was jockeyed over a tricky orbit-shifting course that ended with the linkup more than six hours later.

There are about 1,000 kinds of fruits which can be eaten.

NO ROUTINE DEPOSIT — Mrs. Charles Turck didn't know it but her $25 deposit Wednesday afternoon pushed the total asset figure of Ulster County Savings Bank over $50 million. On hand, for the record-breaking deposit with Mrs. Turck were (left) Howard C. St. John, bank president and Robert Alward, teller. St. John, speaking on the event, said "what impresses us more than this record $50 million for Ulster County banks is the confidence of our depositors that the amount reflects. It's gratifying to see this same vital ingredient, that was present 115 years ago when Ulster County Savings started, is still with us today. In any case, we're justly proud and grateful on this occasion." (Freeman photo by Kruh)

New Laws Explained

BY CONGRESSMAN JOSEPH V. RESNICK

Where Dollar Goes

The Federal Budget is a book about 2 inches thick, printed in small type, spelling out in detail exactly where every hard-earned dollar collected from taxpayers is spent.

The budget is a formidable volume whose sheer bulk is enough to frighten all but the bravest souls. This is really a shame because much of the information contained in it is very interesting and provides a clear picture of how federal funds are being spent.

However, very few of us are accountants or financial experts. Therefore, I have asked the government to prepare for the benefit of the general public, a breakdown—without going into too much detail—of where it plans to spend our money for the fiscal year beginning this July 1st and ending June 30, 1967. First, I will show you where the government receives its money from:

Income
It is estimated that for each dollar collected for the fiscal year 1967 39 cents will come from individual income taxes; 24 cents from corporation income taxes; 17 cents from employment taxes (social security payroll tax and railway retirement payments); 9 cents from excise taxes; and 11 cents from other sources. Included in the others category are taxes on estates and gifts, customs, fees, and sales of government property. Most of the receipts from employment taxes and excise taxes go into a trust fund to be used to pay social security benefits, hospital care for the aged, highway construction, and veterans life insurance.

It is estimated that for the 1967 fiscal year, 34 cents will be spent on national defense, military assistance, and atomic energy. In addition, 7 cents will be used to finance the war in Viet Nam and to provide economic assistance for the people of South Viet Nam.

Space research and technology will take 4 cents; and an additional 4 cents will be needed to provide benefits and services for veterans; 7 cents will be used to pay the fixed interest charges on the national debt; and 3 cents will be spent on international affairs and finances. Two cents of this will go for financial economic assistance programs. Included in such assistance programs are the All-India Peace Corps, Peace Corps, technical cooperation and development loans. The other 1 cent will be spent on the Food for Peace Program.

Agriculture programs take about 2¢ of the federal dollar, with 1.8¢ used for farm income stabilization in the form of price supports, supply and purchase programs. The remaining 0.2¢ will be sent to finance rural housing, rural development, agricultural research, and animal inspection.

Two cents of each federal dollar will be spent for natural resources, with 1.2¢ for land and water resource development. The remaining 0.8¢ will pay for forest, mineral, wildlife and recreational resources.

Commerce and transportation will take about 1.5¢; Housing and Community Development, 0.1¢. The Contingency fund will require 0.2¢; and General Government, 1.25¢. General Government funds cover the cost of running the legislative branch of the government, the judiciary branch which includes all federal courts, law enforcement agencies such as the FBI, and the President's Office at the White House. The major portion of these funds (over 1¢) is used for internal revenue services, construction and maintenance of public buildings, the Government Printing Office, and administration of territorial government.

Other Outlays
Health, Labor and Welfare programs account for 6 cents of each federal dollar and the largest portion of this (2 cents) goes for health services and benefits for the aged, children, blind, hospital construction, and water and air pollution control. Labor and manpower training programs take 0.3 cents while vocational rehabilitation, school lunch programs and food stamp programs total less than 0.4 cents. Two cents of each federal dollar will be sent to the states for public assistance programs for the mentally retarded, severely disabled, and other handicapped individuals.

The War on Poverty accounts for 1 cent of each federal dollar. Some of these programs are Head Start (pre-school training), remedial reading, neighborhood youth corps, job corps, college work-study programs, and small business loans.

One and six tenths cents of each federal dollar are for educational programs, of which one cent is for education of the disadvantaged in elementary and secondary schools. The remaining six tenths cents goes for higher education, science education programs, vocational education, library assistance, and Indian education services.

There are 26 cents remaining of the federal dollar which go into trust funds for future social security payments, medicare, and future highway construction.

It is clear that the largest portion of the federal dollar spent goes for military defense, the war in Viet Nam, and for social security benefits. Health Education, Labor, and Local Welfare account for 7.6 cents and the largest portion of these are for health benefits.

Education in the 1967 fiscal year will take only 1.6 cents of each dollar spent and economic development programs will take 1/100th of the federal dollar.

matter of fact

Dogs have played an important role in the development of brain, bone, abdominal surgery, and in the knowledge of metabolic diseases. For example, there are more than one million diabetics in the United States alone who are living useful and almost normal lives because of the experimentation done on dogs.

Officials, Help Out With Sales At Caldor Store

A large crowd estimated at more than 15,000 jammed into Caldor's new Kingston store Wednesday during opening day festivities for the new 90,000-square foot discount department store and TBA Auto Center.

Traffic was backed up at times on Route 9W in front of the store at the height of the rush and extra special police were called out by the company to direct traffic leading into the store. The big 600-car parking lot off Route 9W and Neighborhood Road was completely filled by 10 a. m.

Add Sales Help

Dozens of extra sales personnel were called to work to handle the rush, which Caldor officials described as the greatest opening turnout in the chain's history. Top Caldor officials pitched in to help wait on customers.

Steve LoPinto, merchandising and advertising coordinator for Caldor, said the crowds that visited the store set a new opening day record for the chain.

Opening festivities will continue through Saturday at the spacious store and will include special opening sales in all departments.

The new store will be open Mondays through Fridays 9:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. and Saturdays 9 a. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Has 67 Departments

The store has 67 departments in its 90,000 square feet of display space, including a 15,000 square foot furniture center, and will offer nationally-advertised name brand merchandise at discount prices.

Driver Found Guilty Of Resisting Arrest

Arrested on Jan. 14 by State Trooper Edward Strieter of Rhinebeck-Hyde Park substation on a charge of resisting arrest, Philip Meldrum of Metzger Road, Rhinebeck, was found guilty Wednesday night after a jury trial.

Justice of the Peace William Pollard, Town of Rhinebeck, fined Meldrum $100 and suspended a 30-day jail sentence.

Troopers said Meldrum was stopped by Trooper Strieter for a motor vehicle violation, became abusive and argued with the trooper.

Calls Protest Scrubbing of Network Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—The three national television networks were deluged Wednesday night with telephone calls from persons protesting the cancellation of entertainment shows for news of the emergency Gemini splash-down.

The National Broadcasting Co. which pulled "The Virginian" and "The Bob Hope Show" off the air, said today it received more than 3,000 calls of protest, and a spokesman could not recall a single complaint.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said many callers asked what had happened to "Lost in Space," a science fiction show. A spokesman for the American Broadcasting Co. said more than 1,000 calls protested three interruptions in the program "Batman," a comic adventure series.

The spokesman said the calls came from as far as Detroit. ABC stations around the country also received telephoned protests, he said, but no estimate of the total was available.

Most all the calls appeared to be from adults. Many protested in their own behalf; some said their children were angry.

The coroner's office said they died Monday of pneumonia.

Claims Irish Honors

DAMARISCOTTA MILLS, Maine (AP) — The 158-year-old Roman Catholic church here claims the honor of being the first American church to be named after St. Patrick.

It was dedicated in 1808 after being built by two immigrants from County Wexford, Ireland.

East Germans Free American, Tried to Aid Wall Flight

BERLIN (AP) — A young American just released from an East German jail said today he was caught trying to help an East Berlin family escape to West Berlin and he would try it again if he had it to do over.

John Van Altena, 22, Milton Junction, Wis., was released from a prison in Communist East Berlin Wednesday. He was brought to West Berlin by a New York attorney, Maxwell R. Rabb, who had taken an interest in the case.

Served 17 Months

Van Altena was released after serving 17 months of an 8-year sentence for what the East Germans call aiding refugee flight. He told a news conference he had been in five prisons, was given no work and for the "first 12 months I was alone in a cell big enough for two men."

He was allowed 20 minutes of exercise a day in what he described "as a sort of cage."

Van Altena, down 10 pounds from his normal weight of 165 pounds, was pale, his hands shook and he smiled nervously. He said he tried to help a family of three escape and was caught at the Communist wall crossing point opposite the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie. The mother of the refugee family and her daughter, 5, were in a false compartment in his car, he said.

Built at Own Expense

Van Altena said he had built the hidden compartment into his American car at his own expense and if he had succeeded in bringing out the mother and daughter—he would have gone back two days later to get the father.

"If I had it to do over, I would do it again. But I would do it more carefully," he said.

He said he was offered no money to bring the family out. He did it because he wanted to help them and had gotten to know them well before the escape attempt, he said.

"The East Germans claimed they caught him in the act," his mother, Mrs. John Van Altena, said in Milton Junction. "In his letters to us he never denied he did it but he said not to believe everything we heard."

She said her son went to Germany about six months before his arrest to work for West Germany's Lufthansa Airline. An informed source in Berlin said Van Altena wanted to get back home. He was taken to an undisclosed location in West Berlin to rest, the source said.

Van Altena's parents said they were told their son had been taken to a U.S. Army hospital in West Germany for a physical examination.

Quick Start on Release

His father, 49, a dairy farmer, said John's release had been arranged by lawyers Wolfgang Vogel of East Berlin, Jurgen Spange of West Berlin and Riecy New of Washington, D.C. Vogel was involved in the exchange of Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Atel for captured U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers in Berlin in 1962.

"We started trying to find a way to secure my son's release as soon as we received word of his arrest," the elder Van Altena said.

The Van Altimas said the State Department told them on Monday that the release was pending but asked them to keep it secret in case a hitch developed. "I was notified by telephone yesterday that he had been freed," Van Altena said. "It was a great relief."

He and his wife, Adele, had written to their son on "numerous occasions but only received five letters from him," Van Altena said.

The letters they got were cautious and very general but indicated he was in good spirits, the father said.

"We knew he was well taken care of and Vogel even arranged for us to send him a Christmas package last year," he said.

Fire on By-Pass Causes Heavy Damage to Home

Fire caused heavy damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John White, East Chester Street by-pass, Wednesday night, despite efforts of firefighters of Ulster Hose Co. 5 in command of Chief Hilary Schultz.

The chief said the fire, which probably was caused by faulty wiring, gutted three rooms and smoke heavily damaged two other rooms of the one-story bungalow owned by John Ferraro, owner of the Ferraro Bowlerama.

Schultz said the firemen "made a good sop." The alarm was sounded at about 8:20 p. m.

Plantings Under '65

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Prospective plantings of tomatoes and peas for processing this year on New York farms are under those for 1965.

The New York Crop Reporting Service estimates the acreage of tomatoes at 7,600 acres, or 5 per cent less than last year's. The acreage for green peas was put at 7,500, or 4 per cent less than last year's.

Pick Up Eight Boys

Eight boys were picked up Wednesday by state troopers in the course of an investigation of acts of malicious mischief reported at the Rondout Marine Inc., at Connelly. A spokesman at the plant said the boys entered the buildings and played on some of the boats, but no serious damage was done.

Killed by Train

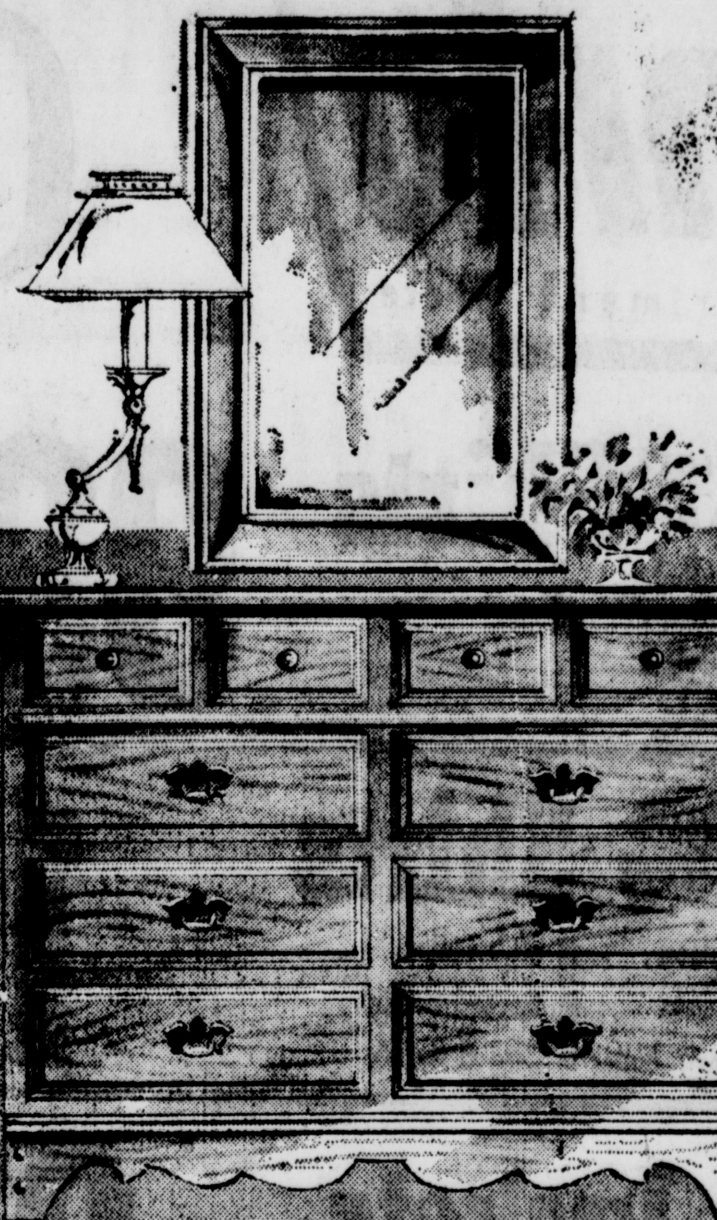

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP) — Walter Katola, 51, of Massapequa Park, was struck and killed by a Long Island Rail Road train last night at the Unqua Road crossing here.

Police said Katola apparently was walking across the tracks. He lived at 1301 E. Lake Ave.

Note 100 Dead, 808 Wounded On Viet Toll

SAIGON (AP)—One hundred Americans were reported killed and 808 wounded in action in Viet Nam during the week of March 6-12. A U.S. military spokesman announced tonight. Eight were listed as missing in action.

There was an increase in all categories from the previous week. American losses from Feb. 27 to March 5 were listed as 61 killed, 177 wounded and one missing.

The spokesman said that, under a new system of units reporting direct to Washington, some of the newly listed casualties may have resulted from action before March 6.

He said there was no way of telling here. He noted, however, that the wounded total appeared to be unduly high, and he could not recall any battle last week that would have sent the figure soaring.

Sees Victory, Failure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Congress today that while victory could be won on the Viet Nam battlefield, "we could still lose the more important fight for the future well-being of the people."

In a statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee Rusk strongly urged approval of the Johnson administration's request for $3.38 billion in economic and military aid to be concentrated in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

"The foreign aid program which this committee is now

He said that $550 million to be spent in South Viet Nam in the new fiscal year starting July 1 would provide direct support for what he called the "quiet battle for economic and social progress."

Emison resided on Town Hill Road in Scarborough, Westchester County.

Farm Delegates Attend Parley

New York Farm Bureau recently held its annual policy execution day at Albany. Attending from Ulster County were Harold Sashin of Ellenville, John Pizzo of Marlboro, Donald Schoonmaker of Accord; and Farm Bureau Agent Kenneth Bell of Stone Ridge. They met with Senator Lloyd A. Newcombe and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and John McBride.

Highlight of the day was the meeting held by 400 members with Governor Rockefeller where he spoke to Farm Bureau and received and answered questions from the floor.

At the time of the 1848 gold rush, San Francisco had a population of only 850.

Search for Kicks Prevalent Among Only 25 Per Cent

Speakers at the Onteora High School P-TA last week both agreed that a child's pre-adolescent years are the most formative ones in his development. Appearing on a program entitled, "The Search for Kicks," Roger Bohalls, of the Truth for Youth organization, and Dr. Norman Reed, school psychologist, discussed various reasons and possible solutions connected with alcoholism and narcotic addiction in the adolescent generation of today.

With William Yeaple, Director of Guidance, serving as moderator, Bohalls and Reed said that 75 per cent of today's children do not have addictions. The remainder of youth, they said, spotlight the problem since they are usually headlined in newspapers.

Both speakers agreed that the search for kicks is most often a search for belonging. Youth joins gangs, drink alcohol and experiment with dope as a means of solving their unhappiness and rejecting their world of adults who run the world for them.

Pre-adolescent years, they said, are important since mental and physical growth at this period will strongly determine what kind of an adult the child will eventually become. Stressing the need for more parent-child relationship; urging the practice of the almost forgotten art of patience and listening to child who needs attention, were points made. Time to listen, time to notice and enjoy a child's development are things many parents do not bother with today, said the speaking duo. Unless parents learn not to be too busy to listen and notice, they will find future problems unsolvable. Bohalls and Reed urged parents not to deny their necessary availability of themselves to their family.

Both panelists were also in agreement on the fact that children need to have limits imposed; that indeed they look for them and are thankful for them, even when balking at such limits. Such action assures them that their parents care, they said. Dr. Reed also stressed the necessity of parents recognizing the child's need for social acceptance at his own age level, and realizing when and where to be firm in guiding the child's activities within this group.

He said if parents try to understand the adolescent child's ideas and feelings, and show understanding, they will be more readily accepted in the child's world. This is one way, he said, for adults to reach children in order to supervise them wisely.

and have them listen to recommendations and instructions. Bohalls highlighted the fact that the need for children to have responsible jobs when not in school is a great one. Parents, he said, should provide them with work around the home or the local community should endeavor to help them keep actively occupied by rewarding them for their labors. Too many too-busy parents and too much unsupervised leisure only accentuate the search of kicks, he said.

Campaign Starts For Scholarship Fund at Onteora

The Scholarship Fund Committee of Onteora Central School P-TA has begun its annual fund-raising campaign and, this week, expressed its appreciation to local residents for past generosity in contributing to this worthwhile program. Jerry Wemple, Mrs. John Wesley, Mrs. Sherman Masten and Joseph Toczydlowski, serving on the committee, said they again depend on the help of private citizens to continue this means of providing financial support to deserving graduates of the Senior Class of Onteora High School.

Speaking of the aims of the Scholarship Fund program and the importance of these awards to the recipients, the committee said that today's need for advanced education is as urgent as ever.

The program has been successful in the past, they said, and resulted in the following comments by past recipients: WOODSTOCK — 9 ... "Thanks to such generous people, we young adults can aim for our goals of higher education and good citizenship with deeper appreciation and the understanding that there are people who want to help us."

"This will be a great help to my parents and myself in relieving the financial problem of my first year at college."

"Your confidence in my scholarship ability, and the consideration shown in selecting me for the award, will serve as an inspiration to do my utmost in my endeavor to pursue a higher education."

"I will never forget the wonderful people who have made the award possible."

These excerpts from letters convey the true significance of the scholarship program and the need for its continuation, the committee feels. They ask for the continued support of the public; note that any contribution will be greatly appreciated by some deserving student this coming June. Contributions should be made payable to Onteora P-TA Scholarship Fund and mailed to Boiceville.

Lutheran Church Notes Activities

"Can You Be Christian in Business?" will be the topic tonight at Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock, as Lenten mid-week discussions continue. Discussion leader will be William J. C. Buddenhagen of Port Ewen and the discussion will follow worship which is held at 7:30 p. m.

Sunday, the Rev. Norman C. Krapf, pastor, will preach on the topic, "Wouldn't It Be Better to Have One Christian Church?" The sermon will suggest the reasons for organic union between denominations.

Mrs. Edouard Blatter of West Hurley and Fred Lohel of Woodstock were received into membership on Sunday, March 13.

Parents and young persons of the community are invited to view a film on the narcotics problem which will be shown in the fellowship hall Wednesday, March 23, 7:30 p. m.

Grade 3 Scores In Irving Play

Recently the two third grade classes at the Reginald R. Bennett Elementary School, Boiceville, presented the play, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," at a school assembly. Adapted from the Washington Irving Classic by Mrs. Susanne Cottier and Mrs. Charlotte Hearn, third grade teachers, the play worked in well with the groups' study of early New York history.

Featured in the program was Gary Tompkins, who played Ichabod Crane; Susan Henderson as Katrina Van Tassel and Jeffrey Van Steenburg as Brom Bones. The remainder of the third graders played the parts of townspeople and school children and served on the scenery crew.

Two third grade classes from West Hurley School who are pen pals with the Bennett children in a letter-writing activity were guests at the assembly.

The play, entertaining and creative, was well received by the student audience. It helped the third graders become aware of early history and some of our literature and also gave them experience in developing poise and appropriate speech and voice control in an audience situation. Hit scene in the show was the one in which the Headless Horseman chases Ichabod Crane, and the cardboard and wooden horses used were as authentic as one could desire.

Register to Vote For $1,910,800 Issue Says LWV

The Woodstock League of Women Voters is urging voters in the Onteora School District to register to vote on the school bond issue referendum which will be presented at the polls March 30. The referendum involves a $1,910,800 addition to the high school.

Registration Day is Thursday, March 24, from 2 to 9 p. m. Places designated for registration are: West Hurley residents at West Hurley Elementary School; Woodstock voters at Woodstock Elementary School; Boiceville residents at Onteora Central School; Shandaken voters at Phenicia Elementary School; Olive residents at Onteora Central School; Mt. Tremper voters at Phenicia Elementary School; and Lake Hill and Bearsville residents at Woodstock Elementary School.

Mrs. M. D. Rapkin, Voters Service chairman for the League of Women Voters, reminds residents that if they register for this referendum, they will be automatically registered for the school elections in May.

Methodists Offer Picnicking Sets

Sunday sermon this week at Overlook Methodist Church, Woodstock, will be "Call to Renewal - Sacrifice." A nursery is provided for the convenience of parents with infants and toddlers.

The Sunday school has started the spring quarter of new material with sessions as follows: beginners through first grade, 11 a. m.; second grade through adults, 9:45 a. m.

The junior and senior Hi MYFs meet at 6 p. m. Sunday evenings. Senior Hi MYF invites the public to see their picnic table and benches that fold before buying anywhere else. These are sturdy, practical, attractive and different from most others.

The evening session of the study of "Acts—Then and Now" will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Franz, Witchee Road, Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p. m. The afternoon session is held at the parsonage at 1 p. m. on Wednesdays.

The junior choir rehearses at 6:45 p. m. and the senior choir at 7:30 p. m. on Thursdays. The pastor recommends for readers "Mere Christianity" a paperback by C. S. Lewis. This book is a series of brief essays on the Christian faith.

Schedule Supper At Shady Church

A family covered dish supper will be held for members and friends of the Methodist Church of Shady Saturday at 6:15 p. m. The supper will take place in the annex and each family is requested to bring a covered dish and their own place settings and dishes.

A short period of entertainment will follow the meal and an offering will be taken to benefit the church. All those planning to attend are asked to contact Miss Evelyn Stone, chairman of the official board of the church.

Jaycees Support Bond Referendum

Members of the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce have joined the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce in voting their support of the Onteora Central School bond issue referendum to be voted on here March 30. The Jaycees made public their backing of the $1,910,800 addition to the high school at Boiceville in a release this week.

Said W. J. Kahn, president of the group, "The Jaycees, as part of their government affairs and community development goals, have made their decision in view of the importance of the issue to the community. The organization is aware of the need of our youth for increased and better educational facilities."

At the last general meeting of the Jaycees, held at Rotron Manufacturing Company, John Ebbs and Herbert Epstein of the Onteora Board of Education, and Edward Witko and John Stephano of the administrative and faculty staffs of the school, presented a program describing the purpose and nature of the bond issue and the increased educational facilities which would be provided. Many questions posed by the membership were answered.

Later, the Board of Directors voted to recommend that the membership support the issue. A special vote taken showed the Jaycees in agreement with the board's recommendation.

In releasing their vote and support, the Jaycees urge the public to vote "yes" on March 30.

Play Readers Study English Comedy

The play-reading group of the Performing Arts of Woodstock will study "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward at their next meeting, Tuesday, March 22, at 8 p. m. The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noel A. France, 13 Patricia Lane, Woodstock, and anyone interested is invited to attend.

"Blithe Spirit" is an English drawing-room comedy which was very successful in both London and New York about 25 years ago. It is a ghost story in which the spirit of a first wife comes back to embarrass a husband in his second marriage.

Reservations Open For Paramus Visit

The Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. 3 of Lake Hill plans a bus trip to the Paramus Shopping Center on Saturday, March 26.

The bus will leave the Village Green in Woodstock at 7:30 a. m. and depart Paramus at 5 p. m. for the return trip.

The public may make reservations on the bus by calling Mrs. Alfred Ostrander at Willow, prior to March 19.

Around the Town

Woodstock's long time Town Clerk, Marjorie Harder, and her husband, Clayton, currently enjoying a well earned vacation in Florida. The Harders annually take this sojourn in the sun while daughter in law, Carol Harder, takes over temporarily at Town Hall.

The recent announcement that the Record Press, local weekly newspaper, had been sold by the publisher Henry Conland to one time Shotwell Road resident Sumner Hall has resulted in another announcement. Hall and his wife, Keith, who plan to move back to Woodstock shortly from Glens Falls, said this week that Virginia Hubbell, free lance writer of Ohayo Mountain, will replace Lorraine Lilja as editor, beginning with this week's issue of the tabloid publication.

News from Cornelius and Margaret Sewell, currently wintering in Sarasota, Fla., is that the southern coastal town is flooded with Woodstockers this season. The Sewells recently entertained Nan Mason and Wilna Harvey, of Bearsville, who motored over for a visit from nearby Anna Maria Island.

Hear Law Explained

Onteora Central Schools Driver Education classes had the Motor Vehicle and Traffic Law explained to them recently by Justice Frank Carle and Sergeant Harry Rhodes of the New York State Police. The oral presentation did much to enlighten teenage drivers locally.

The William Hands, long time Woodstockers, have moved to Long Island permanently and their Bearsville home is up for sale. Hand formerly owned and operated the Woodstock Dairies and was known for his work with the local March of Dimes drives.

Marcia Underhill, daughter of

$1,300 Raised In Dimes Drive

Jean L. Gaede, Woodstock chairman for the March of Dimes, said this week she was a "happy" chairman. She said the recent campaign conducted here was supported by a hard-working and enthusiastic committee.

Mrs. Gaede thanked all those listed above, as well as the people who donated home cooked items for the food sale; Bonnie's Shop and the Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties, who gave their windows for displays; all those who typed mailers; and women and teenage volunteers who made door-to-door canvass through heavy snows. She also had praise for the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club which sponsored a benefit dance for the Dimes drive; for the people who worked to fill coin cards; and for Supervisor William West Jr. for presentation of a proclamation of the worthiness of the cause.

Others whose efforts were appreciated were those who decorated with flowers purchased, ate cake from the sale, danced at the dance and generously responded to approaches for contributions.

She said her committee is grateful to the many Woodstockers who supported the March of Dimes, and announced the total raised here as $1,300.

100,000 Ready For N.Y. March

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the day when the Irish in everybody bubbles up in a kind of green frenzy.

By the thousands, Irish Americans across the country took to the streets this St. Patrick's Day in remembrance of the man who helped put Ireland on the map.

In New York, more than 100,000 persons were to parade up Fifth Avenue.

Other St. Patrick's Day parades are being held in Boston, Chicago and New Orleans.

Likes to Walk at 101

DETROIT (AP)—At 101, dam Wurster enjoys an occasional drink, smokes cigars, and walks half a mile every morning.

Stepping off a plane from Florida the other day, he refused to use the airline's wheel chair and walked away spryly.

"I'll probably go to Florida again next winter," he said. Wurster, a retired farmer, has 49 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. His wife died in 1919.

Leary Names Negroes On Qualifications

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary has designated two top Negro aides to pass on the qualifications of Negroes and Puerto Ricans rejected for appointments as policemen.

Leary, who announced the action Wednesday, said the reviews are intended to prevent any rejections because of discrimination which some civil rights groups have charged. "The commissioner will have the final decision," Leary said. The reviews will be made by Franklin A. Thomas, who is in charge of legal matters, and Assistant Chief Inspector Lloyd Sealy.

The Party's Over

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The party is over for 14 youngsters accused of stealing enough ice cream since January to fill 16,500 cones.

The youngsters — aged 9 to 15 — had slipped into a fenced area around an ice cream factory, broken into trucks and taken 275 gallons of ice cream. Judge Sam Davis Tatum fined them from 25 cents to $5 each and placed them on probation.

Not that the story need be long, but it will take a long while to make it short.

Friend—When Harry drowned, did he have insurance? Widow—Yes, $100,000 worth. Friend—That's remarkable for a man who couldn't read or write! Widow—Or swim.

Be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams, the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.

God made both tears and laughter, and both for kind purposes; for laughter enables mirth and surprise to breathe freely, so tears enable sorrow to vent itself patiently.

Crime Was $5 Candy Theft

Award Man $115,000 For 34-Year Jail Term

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — "Now I'd like to get married," says white-haired Stephen Dennison, who is richer by $115,000 as compensation for 34 years' imprisonment he spent for stealing $5 worth of candy.

Dennison was issued the award Wednesday by Judge Richard S. Heller of the State Court of Claims in Albany, who said no amount of money could pay Dennison "for the injuries he suffered and the scars he obviously bears."

16 at Time

Meanwhile, Dennison says lawyers have advised him to put his money in the bank "and sign no papers."

The 57-year-old unemployed janitor was 16 when he pleaded guilty to stealing candy and marshmallows from a roadside stand. Except for a brief period on probation and another on parole, he spent from 1926 to 1960 in state institutions for the criminally insane.

Heller said Dennison's classification as a "low-grade moron" by psychologists was "a tragic error."

Today, however, Dennison says he wants to make it clear he's "not mad at anyone."

"I want to buy a home, marry and settle down," he said, "but there's no woman in the picture yet."

Since his release on Dec. 16, 1960, Dennison has struggled to adjust to life outside prison. He has been unable to find work as a janitor in this Hudson River city and spends his spare time, he said, simply walking the streets.

"You can't find a wife just walking around," he commented and said that if he doesn't find the woman for him here, he'll try a lonely hearts club.

When he learned of the award, Dennison also said he'd like to travel to the South. "I've never been there," he said, "and it sounds nice."

He thought he might purchase a round-trip bus ticket to Charleston, S.C., and said he believed the ticket price would be $99.99.

Rules Out Flying

Flying is out, because, he said, "a man could get killed in one of those things."

In a scathing decision, Judge Heller said:

"In a sense, society labeled him as sub-human, placed him in a cage with genuine sub-humans, drove him insane, and then used the insanity as excuse for holding him indefinitely in an institution with few, if any, facilities for genuine treatment and rehabilitation of the mentally ill."

If it wasn't for Dennison's older half-brother, George, this "tragic mistake" might have gone unnoticed, Heller said.

George had become convinced that his brother was not insane and, with his meager savings, hired two lawyers, George H. Wein and William V. Canale, both of Glens Falls.

Stephen was released on a writ of habeas corpus by a State Supreme Court judge who agreed that Dennison had not been properly informed of the proceedings against him.

Shortly thereafter, acting through his attorneys, he filed a claim that originally was for $300,000.

What other reaction does he have to the court actions on his behalf? He's happy that the restoration of his constitutional rights includes the fact that he now is eligible to receive unemployment checks.

Mother, 3 Infants Die in Upstate Fire

ILLION, N.Y. (AP) — A mother and three of her children perished early today when fire swept their two-story, frame home in this Mohawk Valley village.

The father and another child escaped injury.

Police said Mrs. Sarah Simonette, 28, and Anthony, 9, Joseph, 8, and Susan, 5, were killed.

Benedetto Simonette, 30, escaped with a daughter, Debra, 2, by climbing out a second-story window onto an attached garage roof, police said.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Firemen said the house was being renovated and work was nearing completion. No estimate of the loss was available.

Simonette is a repairman for the General Electric Co. in Utica.

The adult body is made up of 65 per cent oxygen.

Fire Destroys Empty Warehouse At Geramtown

GERMANTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Fire erupted in an elevator shaft of a large, vacant cold-storage warehouse in this community south of Hudson early today and destroyed the four-story building's top floor.

Approximately 150 firemen from several communities battled the flames for more than seven hours.

No one was reported injured.

Chief David Haroldson of the Germantown Fire Department said the fire started in an elevator shaft on the ground floor and spread up the shaft and a stairway to the roof of the brick structure. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Flames were confined to the top floor, firemen said, but the rest of the building was damaged by smoke and water.

The building, formerly occupied by the Hudson Cold Storage Co., had been vacant for two years, firemen said. They said the structure, approximately 250 by 300 feet, had been sold recently to William Yolden of Geneva.

The building had been used for the packing and cold storage of apples, one of the major crops in this Hudson Valley area.

The fire slowed traffic on the nearby New York Central Railroad tracks.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income and industrial production made significant advances last month — both rising to record levels.

Reporting this Wednesday were the Federal Reserve Board and the Commerce Department.

The Reserve Board said industrial production rose last month to 151.3 per cent of the 1957-59 average, up 9 per cent over February 1965 totals.

The Commerce Department said personal income rose $4 billion last month to an annual rate of $556 billion. The climb was led by a $2.75-billion rise in wages and salaries during the month.

House Delays Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has delayed for a week consideration of legislation authorizing construction of an official residence for the vice president. The action came Wednesday amidst a blast from a Republican leader.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he believed the vice president ultimately should have an official residence but added: "There is a time to build and a time to mark time on a project of this kind."

The legislation calls for an appropriation of $750,000.

Elderly Columbia Woman Succumbs In Dwelling Fire

An 85-year-old Columbia County woman perished Wednesday night when fire destroyed her two-story frame home on Near Road, Town of Gallatin.

Claverack State Police said Coroner Robert Near Jr., of Philmont, gave a finding of accidental death after investigating the fire that claimed the life of Mrs. Ruth Leavy.

After the fire was quelled by Milan and Pine Plains Fire Companies, the body of the woman was found on the floor of a second floor bedroom. Troopers said it is believed the fire started from a chimney and spread through the center section of the residence.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor, Frank Wolf, shortly before 7:45 p. m. Troopers reported that Wolf made several attempts to enter the burning building in an attempt to save the elderly woman, but was forced back by the intense heat of the flames and dense smoke.

Another occupant of the house, Charles Seifert was not home at the time of the fire.

Homicide Ruled In Death of Upstate Priest

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, whose bruised body was found floating in Seajacunda Creek here Sunday, was killed an Erie County medical examiner ruled.

The death of Very Rev. Msgr. Francis J. O'Connor was a "definite homicide", Dr. John P. Hyland said Wednesday.

Msgr. O'Connor was "choked and his head held under water by more than one assailant," Hyland said.

He said that there was a "fair amount" of water in the dead man's lungs, and that the immediate cause of death was drowning. An autopsy also showed that he suffered a fractured larynx.

Msgr. O'Connor, 44, was editor-in-chief of The Magnificat, the official weekly newspaper of the Diocese of Buffalo.

Because the priest was a husky 6-footer, police said they believed more than one assailant took part in the killing. Police also believed robbery was a possible motive since they have been unable to find the priest's wallet.

Msgr. O'Connor was last seen alive Saturday night at his residence, the Sisters of St. Joseph Motherhouse, a convent where he had been a chaplain.

The priest, dressed in civilian clothing, apparently left his room, drove away in his automobile, then parked it and walked along the creek, police said. Friends said Msgr. O'Connor was fond of long walks.

His automobile was later found.

The child, James Poirier, was trapped in a bathroom during the fire Wednesday. His mother carried a daughter Shelly, 6 months, to firemen on a nearby roof, who rescued both.

The other victim was Jan Burkevics who was believed to have suffered a heart attack during the fire.

Dubinsky Smiles Over $500 Million In Union Funds

NEW YORK (AP) — David Dubinsky talks hoarsely, shouts because he likes to and breaks into a broad grin when he says he's leaving his Garment Workers Union with a $500-million "knippel" in its treasury.

Dubinsky, 74, a Polish immigrant who rose from a button-hole maker to head the 447,000-member organization, says "knippel" is Yiddish for money stashed away for hard times. "I'm not expecting any, but it's plenty nice to have on hand," he said.

In Office 34 Years
Dubinsky, who retired Wednesday as president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union after 34 years in office, has been explaining about "knippels" for years.

At a meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, he lectured President George Meany on them. "It's a little hard to explain, but I took out my handkerchief and showed him just how you tie the knot right so the money doesn't fall out," Dubinsky recalled. "Now he knows."

Dubinsky was one of the last of the union leaders who grew up with the labor movement, guiding it out of the sweatshops and hiring halls into an era of member-owned hotels and health clinics.

He will remain as a vice president of the AFL-CIO and as vice chairman of New York City's influential Liberal party. Dubinsky has enjoyed a close relationship with Democratic presidents since Franklin D. Roosevelt. The last law President John F. Kennedy signed authorized a federal commemorative medal for the 50th anniversary of the ILGWU's health center, the first ever established by a union in this country. President Johnson came to New York in 1964 to dedicate a plaque on the anniversary.

Will Travel
Dubinsky, 5-foot-5, with gray crew-cut hair, conducts conversations at a shout and pokes the air with his forefinger when making a point. He jabbed the air as he told of taking over the bankrupt union in 1932 and of converting it into a prosperous organization "with some help."

Plans for Hudson Mansion

Olana Enshrinement Stirs Interest Among Art Lovers

By JAMES C. HAVILAND
The Poughkeepsie Journal

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — A colorful monument to a group of American artists, who gained 19th century fame with romantic painted conceptions of the beauty of nature that surrounded them, has excited the concern of New York art lovers.

Led by Alexander "Sam" Aldrich, a cousin of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, devotees of art are attempting to enshrine "Olana," once the home of landscape painter Frederick E. Church, who died in 1900. He was a leader of the Hudson River school.

Imposing Mansion
"Olana" is an imposing, 200-room Victorian mansion designed in Persian style by Church after consultation with Calvert Vaux, co-designer of Central Park in New York City. The mansion towers high above Church's beloved Hudson. Furnishings include 160 of his paintings and about 900 drawings.

Before he was crippled with arthritis in 1877, some of Church's paintings sold for $12,500, a high price in that era. The folk who hope to buy "Olana," which in Arabic means a place on a high eminence, consider the $470,000 they are trying to raise a "good price" for the mansion and contents.

Others beside Aldrich who seek to turn "Olana" into a museum and art center include James Biddle, curator of the American Wing at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Donald Karshan, president of Manhattan's Museum of Graphic Art, and Carl J. Weinhardt Jr., director of the Gallery of Modern Art in Manhattan.

Named Chairman
Aldrich became chairman of the preservation group, which has influenced the estate's executors to spare Olana until at least June 30 this year. About $100,000 has been raised.

The man who created this Persia on the Hudson was born in Hartford, Conn. Church received his first art instruction as a boy in Hartford from Benjamin A. Coe and W. H. Emmons.

But his real inspiration came from Thomas Cole in Catskill, N.Y. Church went to live with Cole in 1844 at the age of 18 and studied with him in Catskill until 1848, forming in these four years his great love for the Hudson Valley.

Church became a member of the Hudson River school of artists, characterized by romantic conceptions of the beauty of nature and often featuring humans depicted against a background of brooding, powerful natural scenes. The school flourished during the latter part of the 19th century and is deemed a major example of romantic thought in the United States.

Painted Valley Sights
Developing unusual technical dexterity, Church meticulously painted the Hudson River and its valley practically leaf by leaf. Highly effective in his management of light and color, he proved skillful in his handling of rainbows, mist and sunsets. In time, his paintings awoke bold admiration. Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) was so enchanted by their extraordinary detail that he examined one canvas with an opera glass to count the leaves.

One of Church's best known works was the "Great Falls at Niagara," painted from the Canadian side. It sold for $12,500 to the Corcoran Gallery in Washington.

After buying wooded acreage across the river from Catskill, Church spent about 10 years clearing it and planning his house.

He wrote this description about the spot in 1869: "About an hour this side of Albany is the center of the work. I own it."

Gave Personal Touch
In designing the house, Church exhibited the same drive for detail he had poured into his paintings. So, stone by stone and tile by tile, he sought to give "Olana" a touch of romanticism.

As a result, there is much about the mansion that looks Persian, including its shallow arches over doors and windows bordered with mosaic tiles, its minarets and spindle-like columns holding up its porches. The house also has East Indian touches, a Moorish influence and bears some resemblance to an Italian villa.

Jetliner Lands Safely After Hitting a Duck

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A jetliner with 60 passengers landed safely here Wednesday after a collision with a duck tore a 12-inch hole in a wing.

The Delta Air Lines DC9, on a flight from St. Louis to Memphis, landed without incident despite the flurry of fire engines and rescue vehicles waiting at the runway.

Delta officials said the twin-engine jet was at 3,000 feet when it flew into a small flock of ducks.

Capt. David Thayer of Chicago, the pilot, said the jet was "coming down when I heard a thud and felt her shudder a little bit."

"I knew we had hit a bird," Thayer said, "but I didn't know where. But I knew everything was all right when we came on down. I'd declared no emergency and I was a little surprised to see the fire trucks."

The bird smashed into the front of the plane's right wing, midway between the tip and the fuselage. "We sent the fire trucks out as a precautionary matter, which is usual."

A Federal Aviation Agency supervisor in Kansas City said the jet struck the bird during takeoff from St. Louis, but that it was not reported until the plane had reached cruising altitude.

"The only reason we learned of it then was the pilot requested permission to reduce air speed to compensate for a damaged wing," the supervisor said.

Judge Advises Cop

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A municipal judge told a policeman in his courtroom how to handle hoodlums who threaten to shoot him.

"If they go for their pockets, kill them and ask questions later," Judge Howard L. Aaron advised the arresting officer after a 17-year-old youth had threatened to kill him.

The judge also told the youth he was making a notation of the threat "so that if you're shot by a police officer no one will be able to yell 'police brutality!'"

Thoughts on Humanity

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — "Whatever the outcome of this medical research, the memory of the humanity of people will be with me always," said Mrs. Harry T. Griffith, whose husband, along with another man is undergoing treatment to save his life from a deadly bone cancer.

Mrs. Griffith thanked the public Wednesday for its "veritable avalanche" of well-wishes. More than 100 letters a day arrive from all over the nation, she said.

They carry messages of hope for the 63-year-old Griffith of Flourentown, Pa., and Robert Allen, 29, of Tucson, Ariz., who suffer from osteogenic sarcoma, a rare type of bone cancer.

"We are hoping that God in His infinite wisdom and goodness will restore Mr. Allen and my husband to health," Mrs. Griffith said.

Both men are undergoing experimental treatment at Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

Admit Narcotic Use

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — At least five to ten University of Rochester students admitted to police they had used marijuana, but prosecution seems unlikely because an investigation failed to uncover the narcotic, a district attorney has said.

The admissions were made last month during an interview of 20 students on the use of narcotics, Dist. Atty. John C. Little Jr. of Monroe County said Wednesday.

The interview was conducted by Detective Supervisor John Gerbino, head of the Rochester Police Department's vice-control unit.

Gerbino later told Little of his findings, but an investigation failed to turn up any marijuana. The police investigation began shortly before the arrest on Feb. 17 of John P. Harrington, a mathematics instructor at Rochester Institute of Technology, on charges of possessing marijuana.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sheriffs departments in New York State made a total of 30,380 arrests for traffic violations last year, the State Sheriff's Association reported today.

The Association, which represents the 62 county Sheriff Departments in the state, added that deputies made 9,681 arrests for criminal offenses.

In addition, 228,478 civil actions were handled by the various departments.

$250,000 Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's ranking Republican plans to urge Democratic leaders to join him in support of a $250,000 plan to street schoolchildren away from cigarettes and drugs.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges declared his support Wednesday for a health-education bill that envisions use of motion pictures and the enlistment of athletes and entertainment stars to present the health message.

He was joined by Walter S. Crewson, associate commissioner of education, who said New York's public schools had short-changed students on health education in recent years.

Brydges said the first step would be to conduct a series of educational conferences for public and private school officials.

Smith, a student at Stevens Business College, was arraigned Wednesday in District Court. Bail was set at $1,000 and the case continued until March 30.

BRIDGE

After Blackwood Do Not Waver

By JACOBY & SON

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's North hand was shown as the basis for several questions in the card set. In addition to our regular column, when North bid six hearts our comment was "Once you bid Blackwood and find out that your side has enough aces to go to six, you must go to six."

A letter from New York underlines the words you must go to six and asks, "Can there be no doubts, no agonizing reappraisal — I'm probably being too aggressive — my partner may only have six or seven points — is there any reason to think he has more? Can there be no turning back?"

The answer to our reader is that the turning back should take place before you use Blackwood. You do not repeat do not — use Blackwood unless you are prepared to go to six with a combined total of three aces.

North's Blackwood bid represented some slight optimism on his part but one should not change from optimism to pessimism between bids and it behooved him to carry on to six.

Embezzlement Indictment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A U.S. Grand Jury has indicted a former business manager of the University of Rochester's atomic energy project on two felony counts in the embezzlement of nearly $18,000.

The indictment, handed up Wednesday, accused Charles B. Thompson, 44, of Rochester, of obtaining $17,956 illegally by falsifying 383 petty cash vouchers to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission between July 1, 1961 and last November. The second count was the embezzling of a sum greater than $100.

FBI agents arrested Thompson Nov. 9 after a university auditor questioned some business records.

The university project is under contract to the federal government.

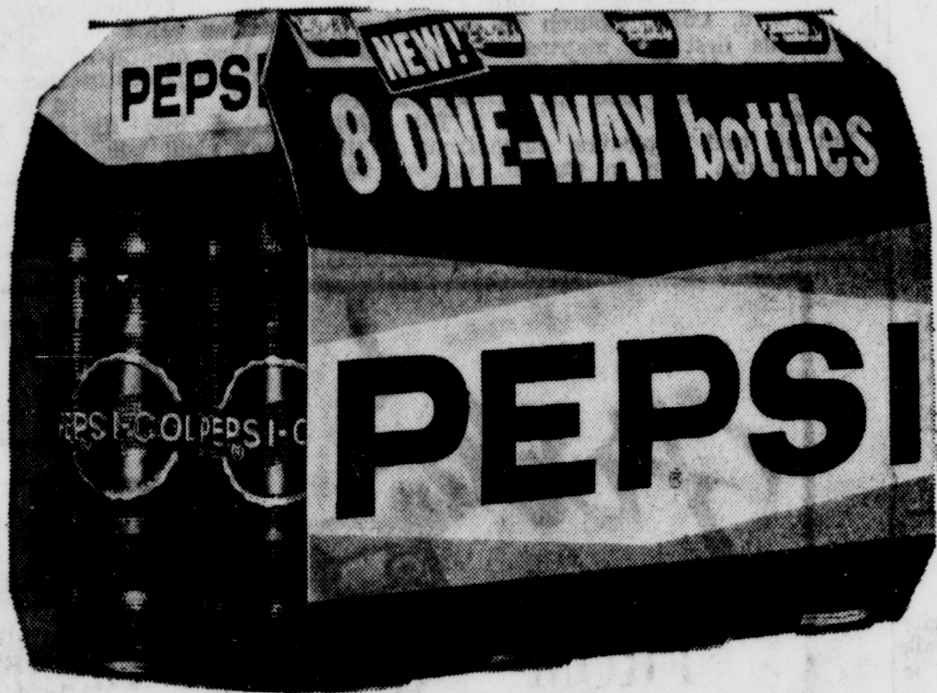

Thompson went to the university Aug. 1, 1957 after working on an Atomic Energy Commission project in New York City.

He lives at 190 Lattimore Road.

Lightning Goes Up
 SOCORRO, N. M. (AP) — Does lightning go up or down? Both, says a scientist at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology. But what you are likely to see is the lightning going up. Dr. Walter H. Evans also said that lightning gives off the same type of light as X-rays emitted by nuclear blasts, a phenomenon which can trigger the so-called black boxes for nuclear detection. The college's laboratory is atop a 10,640-foot mountain. Dr. Evans said that anything such as lightning which cannot be isolated in a laboratory requires that the laboratory be moved to it.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Nineteen Elected To Honor Society

NEW PALTZ—Fourteen juniors and five seniors were recently elected into the New Paltz Chapter of the National Honor Society at the New Paltz Central School.

The students were elected because of their outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. The primary pre-requisite of eligibility for membership in the society is a scholarship average of 85. The faculty then rate them in the other areas. Fifteen per cent of the junior class was inducted and five per cent of the seniors.

The installation ceremony was held on Friday at an assembly. The mistress of ceremony was Jackie Stone, president of the New Paltz Chapter. The program consisted of a procession played by the high school band under the direction of Paul Steiner and a selection by the combined high school choir and chorus with Mrs. Mildred Bond conducting. Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal, gave the opening remarks. The various members of the honor society took part in the program. Karen Barr gave the history of the honor society. Cathy Roth made remarks about character; Susan Mabee, scholarship; Sid DuBois, leadership; and Margaret Rode, service.

The introduction was made by Dippel, John Wyman, high school principal and Jackie Stone.

After the installation ceremony, a reception was held for the new members. Inducted were:

Seniors — John Cosh, Judith Einkenkel, Andrea Hasbrouck, Gerald Hunter and Francine McElhenney.

Juniors — Beatrice Capone, Kathleen Coffey, Sue Davidson, Ruth Ferris, John Frampton, Jutta Gaides, William Gooderham, Karen Hasbrouck, Cheryl Hoffman, Karen Holliday, Carolyn Jensen, Kathy McGrath, John Rollins, and Eric Stanmyer.

Thomas P. Benenati, guidance director is the advisor to the group.

Former Co-Ed Placed On Drug Probation

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A 22-year-old former Ithaca College co-ed is on indefinite probation as the result of her conviction on a charge of possessing marijuana, a misdemeanor.

Judge Norman Stagg also suspended any jail sentence Wednesday for Miss Mona Silverman, after a jury of five men and seven women found her guilty in the two-day trial in Tompkins County Court.

Miss Silverman, of the Bronx, was charged May 13, 1964, after police said they found a quantity of the drug in her dormitory room on campus.

Last June, she was found guilty on four counts of narcotics violations, three felonies and a misdemeanor, but the felony charges later were reversed on appeal.

Judge Retains Seat

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Judge Alexander Del Giorno of Long Island City will retain his seat on the State Court of Claims, under his reappointment by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor also named Wednesday Dr. Arthur C. Logan of New York City to the Council of the State University's Downstate Medical Center, for a term ending July 1, 1974.

Logan succeeds Paul M. Herzog of New York City, who resigned from the unsalaried post. The appointment requires Senate confirmation.

Local Girl Competes For P-TA Scholarship

Cathy Roth, a senior at New Paltz Central School has been selected by the administration as a candidate for the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers Scholarship for teacher education.

The scholarships are available for students who plan to enter a State University College and major in elementary or secondary education. The scholarships are in the amount of $1200, payable each year for four years. The winners of the awards will be notified on or about May 15, 1966.

Miss Roth is planning on attending the State University College at Oneonta in the fall and major in elementary education.

While in high school she has been active in varied types of extra curricular activities including intramurals, French Club, Girls Athletic Association, drill team, Yearbook, student council, honor society and senior seminar. She has been an officer in many of the groups.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roth, 13 North Front Street, New Paltz.

Stratton Going to Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., will lead a four-member House Armed Services subcommittee April 7 to 18 on a military inspection trip to Southeast Asia.

Stratton of Amsterdam, said the group would compile a report after investigating troop morale and the adequacy of equipment in South Viet Nam.

In addition, he said, the subcommittee has been instructed to look into the effectiveness of river patrols, the scope of border patrols and progress on port and airport facilities.

Other members are Reps. Robert T. Stafford, R-Vt., Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., and Floyd V. Hicks, D-Wash.

Assembly Votes Wilson Measure On Retirement

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County announced today that the State Assembly has voted its approval of his legislation to allow members of the State Retirement System with 25 years of service to retire at their own request and receive a retirement allowance immediately regardless of their age.

The Ulster County Assemblyman stated that at the present time some state employees, such as members of the State Police, and certain municipal employees have the right to retire after 25 years of service, and he felt that the same right should be granted to all members of the State Retirement System.

If Assemblyman Wilson's bill is signed into law the measure would affect all state employees, as well as all county, town, city and village employees who are members of the retirement system.

Assemblyman Wilson pointed out that his legislation would also provide that any person who elected to retire on the 25-year plan would have to pay a higher rate of contribution to their annuity fund, not only for future service prior to their time of retirement, but also to make up any deficiency in their fund for past service. Wilson said that this section of the bill would keep the State Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and would also assure the employee a fair retirement allowance.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that his retirement bill received strong union support from Local 300 of the Building Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, and he expressed the hope that his legislation would be enacted into law this year so that civil service employees would be able to take immediate advantage of the measure.

Fire's Toll

In the United States, fire takes an annual toll of more than 11,000 lives and the direct financial loss in building fires alone, is more than $1.5 billion.

Birch Head Raps Johnson on Viet

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The head of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society says the Johnson administration is using the war in Viet Nam as "an excuse to bring about more controls, regimentation and power."

Robert Welch also told 2,000 persons at Cornell University Wednesday that the "Johnson administration shows no intention of winning or wanting to win the war."

In domestic affairs, Welch said his group "was going to break up this Communist conspiracy in America and return a world gone crazy to sanity again."

Lecture Scheduled On Holy Shroud By St. Joseph's Group

An illustrated lecture on the Holy Shroud of Turin, sponsored by the Altar-Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, will be given by the Rev. Charles E. Charest, S.S.S., on Monday, March 21, at 8:30 p. m. in the new school.

The Holy Shroud is the piece of linen cloth in which the body of Christ was wrapped for burial. On it is clearly seen the two stained images of Christ, front and back, bringing vividly to mind the whole drama of the Passion. In the words of Pius XII, it is "a glorious witness of the Passion of the Divine Redeemer, upon which we behold with deep emotion and so face the image of the lifeless body and the broken countenance of Jesus."

Father Charest, of the Blessed Sacrament Fathers, teaches French at Eymard Preparatory Seminary in Hyde Park, N. Y. For years, including fifteen spent in Australia, Father has lectured on the Shroud, to

REV. CHARLES E. CHAREST many and varied groups, Catholic and non-Catholic alike. His presentation is informative and stimulating, one which "brings to life" the sufferings of Christ in a manner which, once heard, is not to be forgotten. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend this lecture next Monday.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette," etc.

DIVIDING THEIR FOOD EMBARRASSES FOOD

Q: A group of us usually go out to dinner together in a restaurant once a week. One couple (husband and wife) are in the habit of exchanging their food with each other. She orders one entree and he another and as soon as it is served, he puts half of what he ordered on her plate and she does the same. They also do this with dessert. The others in the group are embarrassed by this and think it most improper. We would like to know what you think about this.

A: To transfer half of everything they order onto each other's plates is certainly most improper. However, if one of them has ordered something unusual and the other wishes to taste it, a small sample of it may quite properly be put on the other's plate.

Parents of Bridesmaids and Ushers

Q: My daughter is to be married in June. We are compiling the guest list and are trying to keep it down to a minimum. The problem is this: There will be a maid of honor and three bridesmaids and an equal number of ushers. The parents of the maid of honor are personal friends and therefore included in the guest list. The parents of the bridesmaids and ushers are strangers. My daughter feels that all of the parents should be included at the reception. I don't. We would very much appreciate your help in this matter and will abide by your decision.

A: You really should invite the parents of the bridesmaids to the church so that they can see how their daughters look in their lovely dresses, but it is not necessary to invite those who are strangers to the reception. The ushers' parents need not be invited to either the church or the reception.

Removing Grapefruit Pulp From One's Mouth

Q: When eating grapefruit and one gets some pulp, which can't be chewed, or swallowed, in the mouth, how does one get rid of it without looking repulsive to others?

A: Dry the pulp by pressing it against the roof of your mouth with your tongue and remove it in your fingers—thumb underneath and four other fingers forming a screen over it so as to hide it from view.

Oriental Artistry Within Reach of All

Poor robin of nursery-rhyme fame knew what to do when the March winds were blowing—she kept herself warm. To forget your winter blues, keep your home warm and invite the neighbors across the street over for an easy-to-fix Oriental dinner. To create the proper Oriental atmosphere, you might want to burn incense and use a Chinese red tablecloth and black or gold napkins. Have chopsticks available for the more adventuresome guests.

Egg Drop Soup is just the right starter before you wisk Crispy Casserole Oriental from the oven to the table. Crunchy chow mein noodles garnish this toothsome casserole. Browned veal strips, rice, bamboo shoots and water chestnuts are blended with a rich brown mushroom steak sauce and chicken bouillon. A buffet-size can of perky green beans, cut on the slant, Chinese style, and bits of vibrant pimiento add a color treat to Crispy Casserole Oriental.

DISCUSSING SATURDAY'S CONFERENCE — Meeting with Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, Freeman Society Editor, local delegates to the YWCA mid-winter conference of teenagers discuss Saturday's schedule. Mid-Winter Conference of Teenagers Is Planned for Weekend in Kingston "Focus: The Girl" will be the theme of a keynote address by Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel of West Hurley at the mid-winter conference of Y-teens scheduled for March 18 and 19 by the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, this city. Y-teens from Poughkeepsie, Schenectady, Cohoes, Gloversville, Newburgh and Troy will gather Friday evening to register at the YWCA between 7 and 8 p. m. along with 10 designated delegates from Kingston Y-teens. At that time, Mayor Raymond Garraghan will extend a welcome to the city. Visiting delegates will be entertained in Kingston homes overnight and for breakfast.

The conference will convene at 9:45 a. m. Saturday at the Fair Street Reformed Church where Mrs. Narel will deliver the keynote address. Her talk will serve as the basis for discussion workshops which will follow.

Participating in discussion leaders from the Kingston YW will be Mrs. Peter Corcoran, Mrs. Othman Abu Gheida, Mrs. Robert Schreiner and Mrs. Samuel McCoubrey.

Mrs. Narel is society editor of The Kingston Daily Freeman and has served as a former Teen Program Director of the Kingston YWCA. She is a member of the board of directors for the Mother Cabrini Home in West Park and Community Concerts Association of Kingston. A former woman's program director in radio and television, she was an active member of the American Women in Radio and Television.

Mrs. Narel is a charter member of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club and was the first woman to serve as president of the American Newspaper Guild, Kingston Unit. She also served the Guild on a state level for several years.

A member of the United Nations Association, Mrs. Narel is also listed in Who's Who of American Women.

It has also been announced that a banquet will be given in the social hall of the Fair Street Reformed Church at 6 p. m. Closing ceremonies will be held at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Roger Malloy is the teenage program director in charge of the conference. This opportunity for youth to gain a broader perspective of values in matters of concern to them is one important facet of the YWCA's program for girls.

Public support of the Community Chest helps to make this possible. The YWCA is a Red Feather agency.

Women Will Radiate Like Glowworms

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Women who like to be first in what's new are clamoring for garments that can have them radiating like glowworms when the lights go out.

And very soon at the races jockeys in the pitch of night will be riding horses which wear harnesses lit up like Times Square.

The new fashion brilliance of people and horses has to do with phosphorescence, "a property" the dictionary says, "which gives off light."

Comark vinyl, a glossy plastic material which recently won several awards for its glowing technical achievement, is suddenly finding its way to all sorts of dark places.

At Roberto Capucci's collection in Paris last month, the blacked-out finale was a spectacle of disembodied females in costumes made of the glowing plastic.

American coat, suit, hat, shoe and skiwear manufacturers have been pioneering these garments that will eventually let a girl look like a candle burning at all ends.

Some advocates tout the safety factors of these garments.

A woman so dressed can shed her own light down darkened stairwells. In luminous shoes her toes have more than a fighting chance with clumsy dancing partners.

MRS. MARTIN JOSEPH HABER (Lakeside photo)

Rossmann-Haber Wedding Is Announced

Miss Bonita Charlotte Rossmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Rossmann of Pine Street, West Hurley, N. Y., exchanged marriage vows with Martin Joseph Haber of Eddyville, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Haber, on March 5, 1966 at a 12:30 p. m. ceremony in Sacred Heart Church, Eddyville.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. John G. Russell. Mrs. John Smith was organist and Miss Joan Lynch was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of silk velvet with a sheath skirt in floor length. Her panel train of velvet was trimmed with alencon lace and seed pearls. A veil of silk mist was held by a white velvet bow and the bride carried white roses.

Miss Judith Haber of Eddyville, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor in a royal velvet gown, sheath style. Her Dior bow headpiece was matching velvet and held a fly away veil. She carried white roses.

Attendants were Miss Catherine Haber of Eddyville, the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Howard Kelly of Kingston, and Mrs. Kenneth Vidos of Kingston, served as attendants. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the maid of honor and they carried pink carnations with white camellias.

Arthur J. Haber of Eddyville was best man for the bridegroom. Ushering were Howard Kelly of Kingston, Robert Tienken of Ulster Park, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, and Boyce Rossmann Jr., of Andes, N. Y., the bride's cousin.

A reception was given in the Woodstock Lounge, Woodstock, N. Y., for approximately 110 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Haber left for Canada after the reception.

Kin Displayed Mixed Emotions For Astronauts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Those who most love astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott are a disappointed—but very much relieved—group of relatives today.

After their icy-nerved husbands dropped safely to earth, Ann Scott and Janet Armstrong showed by their smiles they are happy their men are safe. But both said they were "very disappointed" the flight ended early.

Both Disappointed

In La Jolla, Calif., Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Tom W. Scott, parents of the Gemini 8 pilot, said they also were disappointed. The general conceded that it was "a great relief" when the splashdown occurred safely, however. At Cape Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen K. Armstrong, Neil's parents, declined to speak directly with newsmen until they talk first with their son.

A spokesman said the Armstrongs were concerned during the tension-filled period leading up to re-entry, "just like any parents would be, but certain everything would be all right."

The Armstrongs watched the launch at Cape Kennedy, a mile away from the Gemini-Titan 2 pad. They came to Florida from their home town of Wapakoneta, Ohio, where Neil was born and raised.

Wives Visit

After the failure occurred 185 miles above the earth, Armstrong's wife, Janet, went to the Scott home in the Nassau Bay subdivision near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston. The two wives spent most of the time in a bedroom watching television and kept in constant communication with Mission Control.

"I'm very disappointed but happy it turned out safely for both," said Mrs. Armstrong after the vigil. Scott's wife added, however, that she was pleased "the primary purpose of the mission was accomplished."

She was referring to the successful linking up of the Gemini 8 spacecraft and its Agena target—a "first" in the history of space flight.

Want Name Changed

CLINTON CONN. (AP) — Thirty homeowners have petitioned to change the name of their street, claiming its present name subjects them, their children and the town to ridicule. It is called High Taxes Road.

The residents say the name always raises eyebrows and that it affects property values. First Selectman George Kinley said the street got that name because the developer "was annoyed with the town for not sharing the cost of putting it in with him."

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

John O'Donnell of Marlboro and Les Barton of Pine Plains, two of the nicest gentlemen we have ever had the pleasure of meeting, tendered their resignations as basketball coaches this past week.

Both went out winners. O'Donnell coached his Dukes to the Section Nine and the UCAAL championships. Barton guided Pine Plains to the Section One Class D crown.

A BRILLIANT MENTOR

Under O'Donnell, Marlboro won two titles in the highly competitive UCAAL and this year's Section Nine title was the school's first. His seven-year record at the Southern Ulster school was 102 wins and 30 losses.

The Dukes enjoyed their greatest success under the genial Irishman. In the seven years we have been associated with him, O'Donnell never had an unkind word about anyone, never made excuses if his team lost and was always a credit to the teaching and coaching profession.

BARTON LEAVES A MARK

Those in this area don't follow the exploits of Les Barton's Pine Plains team in Dutchess County. However, during one period, Pine Plains had a winning streak of 62 straight. What made it even greater was that this Class D team was beating the likes of Arlington and Wappingers plus other bigger schools.

Barton guided the Bombers to their fifth Section One tournament success this season. His resignation as basketball coach means he will continue only as baseball mentor in addition to serving as the school's athletic director.

To O'Donnell and Barton, we wish them well. We are proud to have been associated with both of them.

A WISE CHOICE

We feel the Poughkeepsie School Board of Education waited too long to name Don Smith as its new head football coach. But, we also feel that the decision was a good one. You can look for football fortunes at Poughkeepsie to start improving almost immediately.

A former star athlete at Wappingers Central, Smith is well-known as a basketball official. He is a popular and personable coach, is dedicated to the profession and is not only respected, but liked by the athletes who have come in contact with him.

"Smithy" has always had good relations with the press and that is one improvement which has sorely been needed in Poughkeepsie High for a long time.

A DESERVED CHAMPIONSHIP

In our more than a dozen years on the sports beat, we have yet to meet a coach who puts in more hours than John Gilligan of Kingston High School.

Gilligan hasn't won many championships as a varsity coach. His teams won the DUSO title once and until last Friday, the Sectional championship had somehow always eluded him.

If they pay off only on titles won, then we would have to say that Gilligan has not been a successful coach. But, if you get paid for what you teach, how you teach it and for what time and effort you put into it, then Gilligan is greatly underpaid.

There isn't a fellow basketball coach in this exacting sport that doesn't praise a Kingston High basketball team coached by Gilligan. His clubs are always well-disciplined and in our opinion, his teaching of the game's fundamentals is as sound as can be.

A TWELVE MONTH JOB

Gilligan doesn't stop working at basketball when the season ends in March. He is friendly with many of the top college coaches and talks the sport to them every chance he gets.

The KHS coach is also an instructor at Jack Donohue's camp near Kingston. Donohue, in case you didn't know coached Lou Alcindor at Power Memorial and is now head basketball mentor at Holy Cross.

Gilligan works his athletes hard but no harder than he works himself. This year's team was no exception. It proved to be a disappointing one because it was almost the same one which burned up the DUSO the latter part of the 1964-65 season.

But, the coach never stopped working them and the Section Nine results, highlighted by that 54-48 win over Newburgh show that the effort was worth it.

If Gilligan were paid by the hour for coaching basketball, he would probably fall under the minimum $1.25 wage scale.

One has to love the profession to work that hard and we sometimes think that Gilligan loves basketball more than he does Kay, who only happens to be his wife.

St. Mary's Seniors Set For Contest at Garden

St. Mary's CYO Senior basketball squad has an important date at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The Upstate Semi-Final winners have a date against the Rockland County CYO Senior champions in the preliminary to the Boston Celtics-New York Knickerbockers NBA finale. Game time is 6:45 p. m. A large delegation of rooters is expected to accompany the team.

The Seniors trounced St. Peter's of Monticello, 76-46, in the Semi-Finals game here last weekend.

Meanwhile three other Ulster county CYO teams will be involved in championship games at Lourdes High school gym in Poughkeepsie starting at 10 a. m. The teams are: St. Joseph's Mets, St. Mary's Tyros and St. Joseph's Jayvees.

Hull, Beliveau Up to Old Tricks

In the National Hockey League's pressure-cooker race you couldn't want a better clutch player on your side than record-breaking Bobby Hull—unless of course it's Jean Beliveau.

Chicago's Hull scored his 53rd goal of the season and moved within three points of the single-season point record as he helped keep the Black Hawks breathing down league-leading Montreal's neck. Wednesday night with a 4-1 triumph over Detroit.

But the Canadiens, hurting physically, refused to fold, bombing two Toronto goalies for seven goals—two by Beliveau—and a 7-2 victory over the Maple Leafs.

Two goals by Johnny Bucyk helped Boston whip New York 3-1 in Wednesday's other game.

Hull scored his 53rd and third in the last three games after Phil Esposito had hit twice for the Black Hawks. Later Hull assisted on defenseman Doug Jarrett's goal, running his point total to 93 with seven games remaining. The NHL record of 96 is held by Dickie Moore, who did it for Montreal in 1958-59.

Montreal has a one-point lead with eight to play. The Black Hawks have seven games remaining.

Pigeon Racing Boom in Ulster

K-Ulster Club Grows Rapidly

By CHARLES J. TIANO (Freeman Sports Editor)

The racing pigeon is believed to have originated about the year 1830 in Belgium.

Pigeons were used as far back as the Napoleonic Wars. One famous message was flown to the Rothschild firm of bankers which told of the victory of the Duke of Wellington over Napoleon.

The art of pigeon racing reached Ulster county for the first time in 1958. That was the year the Kingston-Ulster County Racing Pigeon Club obtained its charter. Seven charter members comprised the club. Membership has grown to 35 and the KUC is affiliated with the International Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers, Inc.

There are two other racing pigeon clubs in the area—Newburgh Racing Pigeon Club and the Middletown Racing Pigeon Club—with the KUC claiming the largest membership.

Fred Polizzi of Mount Marion, secretary of the Kingston-Ulster club, says there are now approximately 150 lofts housing an average of 40 pigeons in Ulster county.

"The sport can certainly use more flyers and the KUC is always trying to encourage our youth to pursue this interesting sport," he says.

Some Top Flyers

In addition to Polizzi, some of the top flyers in the KUC are Tony Lanzarone and Walter Jones of Highland; Fred Knox of LaGrangeville; and Cecilia Buckman of Kingston.

Most fanciers breed their own pigeons but some purchase them from well known breeders, who have established reputations for breeding champion pigeons. The price of a young pigeon can vary from $1.00 to $100 depending on the strain and performance of its ancestors. Dr. Charles Heitzman of Kentucky is perhaps the best known among a large number of professional breeders in the United States today. He specializes in the famous Sion and Stassart strains.

Some of the mother strains of racing pigeons are attributed to such master breeders as Ulens of Antwerp, Wegge of Lierre; Hansenne and Ruhl of Verviers; Soffle of Antwerp and Vanderelde of Borgerhout. These strains were later improved by men like Paul Sion of France and Guillaume Stassart of Brussels, Belgium. All of these strains are in almost every loft in the United States today, although pigeon racing did not really get started in the U. S. until around 1900.

22 Races Each Year

The Kingston - Ulster Club stages a series of 22 races each year. Eleven races are for "old birds" and eleven for "young birds." In the young bird division there is a special Futurity race and a memorial race in honor of the late club president, John Goffredi. Some clubs sponsor special races with invitations to out of town breeders. The birds entered by out of town fanciers are usually trained by a local club member.

Racing pigeons are not divided in classes. There are only young birds and old birds. Young birds are pigeons that are raced the same year they are born. They only compete against each other and the races are restricted to birds born that year. The young birds are flown only up to 300 miles. Distances in excess of 300 miles are considered too much of a physical strain on a young bird. When a pigeon becomes a yearling or older he may be raced up to 600 miles.

Five years is about the average career span of a racing pigeon. After that the strain and hardships of tough racing begin to take their toll. Some pigeons have been known to win big events at ages over 5 years, but this is usually the exceptional bird.

Polizzi points out that there is no difference between male and female birds with respect to racing ability. Some fanciers claim that the hen performs best when she has eggs in the nest. And the male when he has 5-day-old youngsters waiting to be fed at home. Most pigeon experts agree that the species has a profound attachment to its mates and young.

What makes Sammy Pigeon run?

"Most racing pigeons have the instinct to home," Polizzi says, "but training is necessary to further develop this instinct and to condition the pigeon's body so that he can withstand the rigors of a tough hard race. Most pigeons are trained to a distance of at least 50 miles before being entered in their first race."

Most clubs start with 100-mile races, gradually working up to 500 miles, at increments of 100 miles. A few clubs are known to sponsor 1000-mile races. Under good weather conditions, the average race is recorded at an average speed of 45 to 50 miles an hour. Some prize birds have been clocked at speeds in excess of 60 miles per hour. The summer season is generally the racing season.

The Kingston - Ulster Club usually stages its races on Sunday. On Saturday night the birds are countermarked and put into shipping crates and transported by truck to the release stations which may be in the states of Delaware and Virginia. When the pigeon arrives at its loft the countermark is removed from the pigeon's leg by its owner and the countermark is dropped into a hole in the mechanical timing device.

The timing clock is cranked and the time of arrival is recorded on the paper tape inside the sealed clock. The counter mark inside the clock verifies the pigeon returned to its loft. And the stamped tape indicates when.

Timing the Birds

Later, all the clocks are opened by the race committee and the winner is calculated by the race secretary. The bird that flew the most yards per minute is declared the winner. This is calculated by dividing the bird's time in the air by the distance flown.

The trucks that carry the pigeons to the release point are specially designed for the transportation of homing pigeons. In case of bad weather, the liberation will be delayed until the weather clears.

The Kingston-Ulster Club awards diplomas and trophies after each series of races to the top lofts and pigeons. Diplomas are awarded at a ratio of one diploma for every 5 lofts in the race.

Polizzi has a tip for persons with the racing pigeon bug.

"If you don't have birds yet, the first advice is don't keep mongrels. Aside from being edible they have no value. The flyer who buys his birds from a breeder who has proven strains will be well rewarded, if he gives the birds the proper care and training."

With Al Jackson traded to St. Louis, the pitching is thin and young back of Jack Fisher who lost more games, 24, than any pitcher in the league.

Jack Hamilton (12-10 at Syracuse) a refugee from the Detroit system, and Dick Selma (2-1), who struck out 13 Braves in a September game, are other starters.

Fifth place? Well, maybe ninth. Maybe.

Next — San Francisco.

Army Plebes Host Wrestling 29 Colleges in Saturday Event

A record number of contestants — 208 from 29 different colleges, to be exact — will be on hand Friday and Saturday at West Point for the 11th annual Plebe wrestling tournament.

Entries were received from 30 schools last year, but only 135 wrestlers saw action.

Local talent will be produced by such schools as Orange County Community College (12 entries); Cortland State Teachers, Nassau Community College, Ithaca, Cornell, Colgate, Oswego State and Albany. New Jersey will be represented by Rutgers, Princeton and Fairleigh Dickinson.

The tournament gets under way Friday with the preliminary round at 3:30 p. m. and the quarter-finals at 7:30 p. m. Saturday's schedule has the semi-finals set for 9:30 a. m. and the consolation and finals at 1 p. m.

Competition will be held in 11 different weight classes, ranging from 115 pounds through heavyweight. Others are 123, 130, 137, 145, 152, 160, 167, 177 and 191. Since the tournament focuses on individual participation, with no team scoring counted, each school may enter two men in each weight class.

The host Army Plebes will enter two full teams. The best of these appear to be John Dinger at 177 pounds, undefeated in nine regular season bouts and Mike Nardotti of Hempstead, N.Y. Nardotti posted an 8-1 record this winter in dual meets. Other hopefuls include lightweights Bob Todd and Jim Byrnes at 123 and 130 pounds, respectively, and Greg Smith at 167 pounds.

Balsis Defends Title Against 14 Opponents

Joe Balsis defends his World's Pocket Billiard title against 14 of the country's best pool players in the 1966 World Championship that opens Saturday at the Hotel Commodore in New York City. The tournament runs through Sunday night March 27.

Last March in New York, Balsis won the title for the first time with an outstanding record of 12 wins and 2 losses. This year he is the pre-tournament favorite to return his crown. He recently captured the Long Beach, Calif. Invitational.

The tournament, the annual "world series of pocket billiards" is being sponsored for the fourth year in a row by the Billiard Room Proprietors Association of America.

It runs for nine days of continuous action from noon until midnight daily, with 105 games of 150-points duration.

Lassiter is Threat
The No. 1 challenger is Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., winner of the 1963-64 tournaments. Other major threats to Balsis are Frank McGown and Cicero Murphy; the 1963 and 1965 runnerup, Jimmy Moore of Albuquerque; and the new sensation, Harold Worst of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Any of these challengers is capable of taking it all, if Balsis stumbles.

Young Steve Mizerak Jr., a 21-year-old Alabama college student and Jack Breit, popularly known as "Jersey Red" are stellar players with an outside chance to win.

Other contestants are: Ed Kelly, a southpaw and former Marine from Baltimore; Onofrio Lauri of New York, dean of pocket billiard players at 72; Johnny Ervolino of Brooklyn; Jack Colavita, New Jersey State champion; Billy Station of Alexandria, Va., and known as "Weenie Beanie" and hard stroking Lou Butera of West Pittston, Pa.

Soviets Launch Cosmos No. 112

MOSCOW, (AP)—The Soviet Union today launched Cosmos 112, a day after it brought down space dogs Blackie and Breezy in Cosmos 110.

The Cosmos series normally carries no passengers. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Cosmos 112 carried scientific equipment, and mentioned nothing about dogs or any other living passengers.

A series of Cosmos shots has normally preceded the launching of a manned Soviet space vehicle. A manned shot has long been rumored here in connection with the 23rd Congress of the Soviet Communist party opening March 29.

Dear Abby . . .

Wife Giving Up Too Easily

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have enjoyed your column for a long time. Perhaps it is the only thing we have in common. After six years of married life with a fine M. D. specialist, I have had it. My problem is not how to make this marriage work, but how to work myself out of it with the least possible hurt to my husband and our two dear, innocent children, both under 5 years of age. Since my husband and I are no longer in communication in any important way (physically or mentally), there is nothing left. He's kind and generous, but possessive and dull. He is hard working and a good provider, but he's neither interesting nor fun. I have tried everything, from vacations for two to new hobbies, to bring back that old feeling, but I have failed. I am bored and miserable. My husband thinks everything is just fine, but I can no longer live this dull life as tho we were 50 instead of 35. How can I make him understand it is all over for me before I see a lawyer? HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: It is difficult to imagine an intelligent husband who is so insensitive and obtuse as to regard everything as "just fine" when his wife is miserable, bored, completely devoid of "that old feeling," and on the verge of seeing a lawyer. But before seeing a lawyer, TELL him how you feel about him. Then the two of you should decide whether to call it a day or get help thru a psychiatrist or a qualified marriage counselor.

DEAR ABBY: A man from the cemetery has been going around selling lots and monuments.

I would like to know, do you really have to put the date of birth on the monument? I don't think it's anybody's business.

NEEDS TO KNOW
DEAR NEEDS: It is customary to place the date of birth and death on a monument, but it is strictly a matter of choice, not law.

DEAR ABBY: So "Disgusted" has a beefy wife! How about those chubby chaps? In 20 years of marriage (and three children) I've kept my weight down to 112 pounds, but Lover Boy has put 55 pounds on his 5 foot 10 frame. We wives want trim, attractive husbands even tho they may be a little thin or gray on top. Husbands who flop night after night in an easy chair in front of the TV, limiting their exercise to bending the elbow to feed their faces, are repulsive. When a man refuses to get medical help, or exercise self-control or common-sense dieting, it's no wonder he has about as much sex appeal as a ruptured duck.

ALSO "DISGUSTED" IN ONTARIO

CONFIDENTIAL TO PENNY: Get to know him better. When his true character "crops out" you are apt to witness a crop failure.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Caldor Appoints Two To Executive Posts

Ira Citrin of Norwalk, Conn. and Bernard A. Meyers of Milford Conn., have been named to top executive positions with Caldor, Inc., the discount department store chain, according to Fred Teitel, Caldor vice-president.

Citrin has been appointed to the post of supervisor of stores and Meyers has been appointed head furniture buyer for the Caldor chain.

Citrin will be in charge of supervising all stores in the fast-growing Caldor chain, which opened its 10th store in Kingston March 16.

Citrin will have five assistant supervisors working under him out of Caldor's executive offices in Norwalk, Teitel said.

Meyers will direct the purchase of furniture for Caldor's highly successful furniture operation, which now includes furniture marts in Bedford Hills and Norwalk, Danbury and Hamden, Conn. Caldor also has large furniture departments inside many of its other stores, including a spacious 12,000 square foot department in its new downtown Stamford, Conn. store and a 15,000 self-contained department in its two new stores.

Teitel also announced the appointment of Al Pashayan of Stamford as furniture mart supervisor. Pashayan will supervise the operation of all Caldor furniture marts, Teitel said.

Publicity which will help the winning Republican candidate go into high gear to beat the Democratic incumbent.

Aldrich disagreed, holding that recent primaries have split and weakened the Republican Party in Ulster County. He said it is his desire to re-unite and strengthen the Republican Party so that the entire ticket will have a better chance for victory. He said the campaign team he is building, embraces regular organization people as well as good Republicans who in past years have been involved on the other side of primary contests.

Recently, Aldrich, who has the endorsement of the Ulster County Republican Executive Committee, chose John L. Larkin as his campaign chairman for the entire 28th Congressional District, and Howard C. St. John as Ulster County campaign chairman.

Aldrich said separate federal machinery for poverty programs need not have been set up by the Democratic Congress; that Wharton had had a wonderful voting record, but lost to Resnick because he—Wharton—had no publicity machinery. He added that his own personal qualifications as policy administrator, and his positions on Olan—a area beautifying project—and directorship on Pat-terns for Progress, best qualified Differences . . .

Fish, who is receiving strong support from the Dutchess County Republican Committee, pointed out a primary was a normal and healthy opportunity for enrolled voters to express opinions. He felt that much could be done by focusing attention on local problems and by forcing federal action by developing local initiative.

Queried as to their interest in Liberal or Conservative Party support, both men said they were seeking only the Republican designation. Fish, however, added that he would welcome Liberal and Conservative votes if they felt they could support him. Aldrich said the question of Liberal support was academic, inasmuch as the present Congressman will receive the Liberal endorsement based on his liberal voting record.

In summing up, Fish talked about his point of view on Viet Nam, which supports the Johnson Administration policy wholeheartedly. Aldrich appealed to all Republicans who are concerned about the preservation of local responsibility and initiative in government, to join with his people and work with him to return the Congressional seat in the 28th District "to responsible qualified hands" once more.

The debate and the questions from the floor, as moderated by Jack Reynolds, president of the Town of Esopus Republican Club, were maintained at a high and informative level.

him as the candidate to run in the November elections.

Kingston Rotary Will Mark Its 50th Anniversary

The 1966 Rotary International convention will be held in Denver, Colorado and Kingston Rotarians were treated to a travelogue of that city and state at their luncheon-meeting Wednesday.

The Rev. Edwin C. Coon projected the color slides for his fellow Rotarians, Colorado Springs, national parks, canyons, mountain peaks, museum, U. S. Air Force Academy, rodeos and other major tourist attractions were included among the slides shown.

50th Anniversary
Next Wednesday, Kingston Rotary Club will begin a year-long observance of its 50th anniversary. The local service club was organized March 25, 1916. On the occasion of its institution here a half century ago, there were 30 members present.

The Rotary Club of Kingston today has 97 members, each a business or professional man of the community. Since membership of the club is composed of one man from each business, the local club represents a cross-section of the city's business life. This basis for membership began with the first club and has continued through the years to become a major characteristic of the Rotary organization.

As part of its community service assisting youth, the Rotary Club in this community, as do other clubs in their communities, helps in many ways to make Kingston a better place to live and to work and to raise happy, healthy families.

Rotary International is also observing the 61st anniversary of its founding in Chicago, Illinois on February 23, 1905. The celebration of this occasion is global in scope, for there are more than 12,200 Rotary clubs and 581,500 Rotarians in 131 countries. Thus, Rotary meetings marking this event will be held in many languages including Arabic, Burmese, Flemish, Gaelic, Korean, Japanese and Persian.

We still can't convince Mrs. Herman Freudenstadt that our Old World Bread is really baked in the New World.

Understandable suspicion. Old World Breads are so much more full of flavor than the ordinary breads in your store. We make them in the "Old World" tradition. Chewy, crusty, hearty. Each loaf is baked slowly, leisurely in its own individual pan to bring out all the natural goodness.

A strictly American touch: All five Old World Breads are wrapped in re-closable plastic bags and rushed to your store. They stay fresh.

HERE'S AN OLD-FASHIONED OLD WORLD BARGAIN—
Not one...but two money-saving coupons...So now's a good time to try two different kinds of Old World Breads.

further excavation and footing work, a representative of the Plaza said today.

Plan Colonial Design

A spokesman for the Kingston Plaza, Inc., operators of the Kingston Plaza shopping Center, said work was to be completed on the two buildings by August and that the plans call for a Colonial design.

The retail store will be of one story construction while the car service station will be two stories in height consisting of a basement section and upper floor.

Sears, Roebuck & Company announced last August 13 that they would open in Kingston a new full-line department store at the Kingston Plaza Shopping Center in uptown Kingston. The announcement was made by Donald J. Stewart, general manager of Sears retail stores in the Middle Atlantic states. The firm at that time announced that it had leased under a long term lease over 117,000 square feet of space at the Plaza on which to locate its new store. The property is being developed under the direction of Robert H. Herzog, president of the corporation, with G. Scott Alexander as manager.

With the addition of Sears Kingston Plaza will have total retail space of over 250,000 square feet and parking for over 2,300 cars. Plans are also under consideration for the construction of a group of smaller stores in the area between Grand Union and Sears which would tie in with the present expansion program.

matter of fact

The length of the runway on an airport is dependent upon the density of the air and its height above sea level. When the temperature is high, for example, the density of the air is relatively low and the aircraft needs a longer takeoff run. The airport at Denver, Colo., at 5,000 feet, needs much longer runways than sea-level airports. Most big commercial jets need at least 8,500 feet for takeoff.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Demand for rails and selected issues kept the stock market a little higher early this afternoon in dull trading.

The rise was a continuation of Wednesday's technical rally which followed two sessions of very sharp losses.

Rails were responding to an encouraging statement from the Interstate Commerce Commission about the rail merger situation. They rebounded from steep losses taken recently.

An irregularly higher trend was apparent among airlines, electrical equipments, coppers, motors and steels. But more losers appeared as the session wore on.

A 2-point loss by Du Pont dampened the list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.0 at 341.9 with industrials up .8, rails up 1.7 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.28 at 917.31.

It was a low-key advance typical of a trading market in which there is no strong trend either way.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds continued to rise in light dealings.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall Street, New York City, branch office, 52 Main Street, Lowell S. Brooks, manager.

southwest of Tuy Hoa, on the South China Sea 240 miles northeast of Saigon. It appeared a major battle might be developing.

In the central highlands, the 25th Infantry's 3rd Brigade skirmished with an enemy force of unknown size near the Laotian border 195 miles north of Saigon. The brigade is hitting at Communist supply routes linked with the Ho Chi Minh Trail across the border.

In the Mekong Delta, a government spokesman said 200 Viet Cong fired mortars for 2½ hours during the night at the airfield at Cao Lanh, 65 miles southwest of Saigon. Other sources said the Communists also inflicted moderate casualties on a government unit stationed at the delta town until they were finally driven off by air and artillery support at dawn.

Photographer Hit

One of the casualties was Dang Van Phouc, a freelance photographer who took many combat pictures for The Associated Press. A military spokesman said he was seriously injured when hit by a bullet in the chest while on an operation with Vietnamese troops.

Intelligence officers said there may be one or two other remnants of North Vietnamese regulars in the D Zone jungle, where the Communists have ruled virtually unchallenged for 20 years. But today was the first time that Hanoi's troops as well as Southern-born Viet Cong have been reported there.

U. S. officers said the Communists were apparently badly bloodied by the repeated air strikes and artillery salvos that relieved an American paratrooper battalion attacked from all sides by some 600 Reds in the D Zone Wednesday. They called the four-hour fight, in which more than a mile-wide swath of jungle was ripped up, a classic demonstration of the ability of American firepower to blast the enemy ranks apart.

U.S. Casualties Light

The battalion found 142 enemy dead outside its perimeter immediately after the action and 113 more bodies farther on. U.S. casualties were described as light.

Forty more air assaults were called against the Communists today, and U.S. spokesmen expected the enemy toll to climb beyond the figure of 275 dead.

U.S. officers said the Communists apparently had women with them assigned to carry bodies off the battlefield and scoop up weapons from the dead.

The U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade, the 1st Infantry Division and the Royal Australian Regiment have as many as 10,000 men in the drive against the jungle stronghold.

In addition to inflicting heavy casualties, the Allied forces uncovered large stores of enemy equipment, spokesmen said.

On the political front, the ousted commander of the army's 1st Corps, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, began a tour of the corps area — the five northernmost provinces — with the proclaimed purpose of stemming Buddhist unrest resulting from his dismissal by the junta last week.

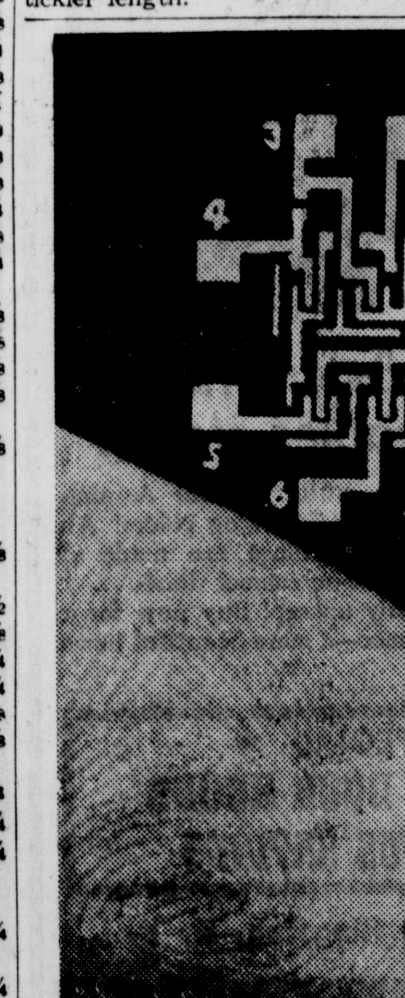

Thi, a potential rival to U.S.-backed Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and a Buddhist favorite, arrived in the old imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. His supporters there staged a strike Wednesday and joined Buddhist clamor for replacement of the military regime by civilians.

First chemical process ever discovered by man probably was heating of wood to convert it into carbon or charcoal. Burning without flame or smoke, charcoal fuel has twice the heating power of wood.

TEENSY TRANSISTORS

The parts for modern electronic devices, getting larger and larger themselves, are getting smaller and smaller. This computer part, shown magnified 100 times above and in actual size on a fingertip below, turned out by a West German firm is little larger than a pinhead but contains 15 silicon transistors, 13 resistors and all necessary connections and switches.

Library Offers Filmed Freeman Dating '54-'66

The Kingston Library has just acquired $500 worth of microfilm, all of the Kingston Daily Freeman. This brings its files of the Freeman on microfilm from the present date back to 1954.

One of the greatest developments of modern technology is the microfilm. Books, newspapers, magazines and documents in increasing numbers are being reproduced on 35mm film in rolls and strips. Some materials are also available in cards and small sheets, called microfiche.

There are many advantages to microfilm, but the major one is its space saving feature. A month's newspapers can be reduced to a roll of film slightly larger than a package of cigarettes. New developments in science have led experts to estimate that it would be possible to convert the 50 million books and pamphlets of the Library of Congress, the world's largest library, into a sub-miniaturized package of microfilm 2 feet by 4 feet in size.

Unfortunately, no devices exist which could retrieve and read the materials in this package as yet, but it seems very unlikely a project such as this will ever be undertaken anyway. Reading microfilm, even with the best of viewers, is not as easy as reading the book or newspaper itself. You cannot curl up with a roll of microfilm.

Actually, saving space is not the only reason many libraries are turning to microfilm. Newspaper has a comparatively short life and it is not uncommon for it to yellow, become brittle and crumble within twenty years.

At one time, prior to the turn of the century, the quality of paper was very good. There was a large rag content and the chemicals used were not as destructive. The 450 year old book recently located in the Kingston Library is still in exquisite condition because of the high quality of its handmade paper.

The reason, of course, for low quality paper is due to the voracious appetite for paper in these times. For every 100 Americans, 87 newspapers are sold each day. Every single day of the year one million newspapers are sold in the U.S. alone. Over half a billion dollars worth of hardbound books were sold last year. Modern technology can certainly produce high quality paper, but its cost would be prohibitive for the mass market.

Australian Holiday

Australia celebrates a national holiday the Battle of the Coral Sea, in which an American task force defeated a Japanese fleet headed for Australia, thereby ending the danger of invasion.

Notes Other Side

Dr. Feinstein then told of the other side of the picture, of the many needs as yet unfulfilled in terms of the expansion of public education on a high school and college level that is needed; of the need for employment intensification in order to assimilate new immigrants into the national economy of the country and of how over 800,000 individuals both in Israel and throughout the world are receiving aid this year from the funds collected by the U.S.A. from communities like Kingston.

Other speakers included Morris Nussbaum, chairman of the General Gifts Division; Robert A. Ronder, president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council and Herbert S. Siller, vice chairman of the campaign.

Refreshments were served during the course of the evening under the chairmanship of Alfred Rose and Mrs. Benjamin Siskind.

Honored for '65 Leadership of Jewish Fund Drive

HERMAN J. EATON
A local insurance executive, Herman J. Eaton, CLU, was honored Wednesday night with the presentation of a bronze medal in recognition of his effective leadership as chairman of last year's Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund.

Eaton received the medal from Robert A. Kurland, executive director of the Kingston Jewish Community Council on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal.

In his presentation speech, Kurland pointed out the medal was a replica of the medals presented to Gen. Pierre Koenig, commander-in-chief of the Free French Forces; Field Marshal, the Earl Alexander of Tunis and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of V.E.-Day and in recognition of their part in liberating the surviving thousands from Hitler's Death Camps.

Kurland said the presentation by the U.J.A. to Eaton was symbolic recognition of the part that the Kingston Jewish Community Council through its Welfare Fund had played since V.E.-Day in the rescue, resettlement and rehabilitation of those who were liberated. He said the generous donations and hard work of the members of the Kingston Jewish Community had made Israel, all the world including our own area and nation a better place to live and grow-up in.

Other Awards

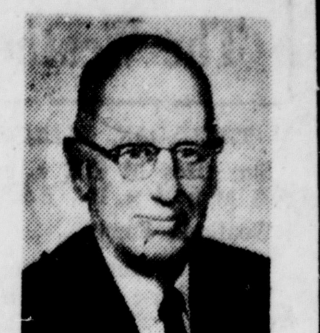

Other awards presented at this kick-off meeting of the 1966 General Gifts Division of the Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund went to the following outstanding workers: Dr. Bernard Cohen, Joseph Cohen, Leon Crystal, Dr. Herbert Derman, Lewis Eaton, Max Etkind, Herbert Gortner, Alfred Horowitz, Irving Kalish, Richard Kalish, Samuel Kushner, Dr. Abraham Meisner, Alvin Moscovitz, Arthur Motzkin, Morris Nussbaum, Arnold Pinsky, Norman Rafalowky, Herman G. Rafalowky, Robert A. Ronder, Irving Scher, Herbert Siller, Mrs. Harry Spiegel, Benjamin Siskind, Louis Tudoroff and Seymour Werbalowsky.

Dr. Martin Feinstein, noted Hebrew author and professor at the City University of New York and Columbia University was the guest speaker. The speaker has spent year studying and traveling in Israel and told of his observations of the country. He spoke about the many fine accomplishments that have been made in the creation and improvements to the Hadassah Hospital, the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Technion University, housing developments and industrial plants. He told of the cultural achievements in the way of music, art and drama, and the transportation industry that has become world wide through Israeli airlines and merchant marine.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
Growth Stocks Wanted As Inflation Hedge

Q "We are an elderly couple in our 70s, living on interest from savings accounts and Social Security. We also have $12,000 in Government and corporation bonds. Our investments offer no protection against inflation so we are considering selling the bonds and buying a diversified list of stocks. I feel that such an investment will do our children and grandchildren more good. Please comment on this and the stocks I intend to buy."

S.H.
A) As your savings bank accounts and bond holdings are indeed vulnerable to future inflation, your proposal to switch some funds from bonds to stocks is a good one, providing you realize that you incur more risk.

I wish to commend you on your tentative list of stocks. I approve your choices of American Telephone, Boston Edison, Gulf Oil, Sterling Drug, First National Bank of Boston, Gillette and Sears, Roebuck. I suggest Scott Paper; Cuett, Peabody and General Motors rather than the other three you name.

Q "My husband has been holding 150 shares of American Standard for about 12 years. At the present time dividends amount to about $150 a year. Price of the stock does not change much from year to year. My husband is semi-retired and we both get Social Security. We would like a higher dividend to supplement our income. Please advise us."

P.G.
A) American Radiator and Standard Sanitary is one of the country's leading manufacturers of plumbing and heating equipment. Since you have owned the stock, its record has been profitable, but nevertheless there has been no growth in either sales or earnings. The dividend has moved up and down with earnings. Past record considered, the stock holds no particular attraction.

Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass would give you the same yield and, in my opinion, the dividend seems more secure in its coverage. If you could afford to accept less income, Socony-Mobil would offer you better growth prospects.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column. (T-M, WRR Gen. Fea. Corp.)

Gemini 8 In Brief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott made a safe emergency landing in the Pacific Ocean after their Gemini 8 spacecraft encountered trouble before the end of the seventh orbit.

Command pilot Armstrong was forced to turn to a re-entry control system when his spacecraft and the Agena engine with which it had docked started spinning out of control.

Gemini 8 parachuted into the Western Pacific some 500 miles east of Okinawa and the astronauts reported they were in good condition after cutting short their three-day flight about 10 hours from liftoff.

U.N. Extends Life Of Cyprus Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council has extended the life of the two-year-old United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus for another three months, until June 26.

In a resolution adopted unanimously Wednesday, the council expressed "the firm hope that by the end of this period substantial progress toward a solution will have been achieved."

Secretary - General U. Thant had asked for a six-month extension.

Anyone who has lost or misplaced his or her card may get another card from the social security district office at 57 Albany Avenue.

Persons 65 and over who have not received enrollment cards should call, visit or write the district office for information about enrolling for the doctor bill insurance and also about establishing their eligibility for hospital insurance, Habernig said.

The Kingston Social Security Office is open every day Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Saturday 9 a. m. to 12 noon. The district office will also be open all day Saturday, March 26 and until 9 p. m. the following week Monday through Thursday.

Early Opening Due

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to open its 1966 season April 4, the earliest in its history, officials said today.

The date is subject to change by weather conditions, and navigation probably would be limited to daylight hours at the outset, if the date holds, U.S. and Canadian officials said in a statement.

An April 4 opening would coincide with that of the Welland Canal between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie. The Seaway's earliest previous opening was April 8 in 1964 and 1965.

NEW CHEST OFFICIALS — Ulster County Community Chest officials installed at the board of directors meeting Wednesday night at Gateway Industries building are (l-r) Prescott C. Newell, president; S. Sam Fraton, vice president; Robert M. Schnitzer, treasurer; Michael J. Cervini, budget committee chairman and Joseph J. Benjamin, outgoing president. Clifford A. Henze is planning committee chairman and Charles E. Raible, vice president and campaign chairman. There are 18 members of the board elected from the general public and 13 agency representatives. They are primarily responsible for administration, budgeting, planning and fund raising activities of the chest and its member agencies. The community chest is the largest voluntary social agency effort in Ulster County. The 13 agencies are Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Cerebral Palsy, Gateway Industries, Girl Scouts, Jewish Community Center, Mental Health, Red Cross, Salvation Army, U.S.O., YMCA, YWCA and Association for Retarded Children. They serve all 12 months of the year but depend on contributions and pledges during their campaign in October. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

Advise Democrat Heads on Naming Of Postmasters

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick underscored his intention to remove political influence from the appointment of postmasters today by advising the five Democratic county chairmen of the 28th Congressional District that legislation which he introduced last week is already in effect in his own district.

In letters to the party leaders, however, Resnick emphasized that this was not a "roll-back" but a plan which would affect all future postal appointments. "I am a man of my word," Resnick wrote. "Under the old system I made certain commitments and I will ratify these commitments. But from now on, any postal appointments will be handled according to the bill."

Resnick's bill provides that when a vacancy exists in the position of postmaster that a senior officer or clerk automatically fill the post of acting postmaster until competitive Civil Service Examinations can be conducted. He would then have the Civil Service Commission appoint the person having the highest rating among the applicants examined.

In his letter, Resnick stated his "firm belief" that the role of political parties in proposing names for postal appointment "has been outdated by the complexity of the job and, at the present time, a record employment figure."

Resnick also stated that he feels the majority of party workers work because of "an interest in Democratic programs and ideals" and only a few "whose loyalty depends upon personal rewards."

To Address Students

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will address the Kingston High School student body on Friday afternoon at 2:30 on the topic, "View of Politics From the National Level." The talk will be sponsored by the Political Science Club of Kingston High School. William Warners is president of the club.

According to Dan Allen, principal, the talk will be part of a series sponsored by the club to familiarize students with politics at all levels. Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan has spoken on city politics and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson on state politics.

Check Burglary, Theft

Local police were notified Wednesday of a burglary at the Subway Grill, 235 Hasbrouck Avenue, and of the theft of clothing from a car. Entrance to the grill was gained through a side window. Eight bottles of liquor and about $35 from a cigarette machine were reported taken. The machine was opened by a key from a cash drawer. Michael Perry, of 36 Prince Street, reported the theft of clothing from his car while it was parked on Broadway near Rogers Street. No estimate of value was given.

Judicious Reply

LEBANON, Ky. (AP)—Judge Joe Jarboe, noted for his dry sense of humor, was riding a bus with a tourist who insisted upon belittling everything he saw in Kentucky. Kentuckians, the man said, are slow; never get anything done. About that time, the bus passed the 351-foot-high Jefferson Davis monument at Fairview. "What's that?" the man asked. "Beats me," replied the judge. "I was through here the other day, and it wasn't built then."

Charge Ex-Nazis With Many Murders

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A former general in Hitler's brown-shirted storm troopers, the SA, and a former Nazi diplomat have been charged with the wartime murder of thousands of Jews.

The two men, Adolf Beckerle and Fritz von Hahn, are accused of taking part in the deportation of 11,343 Jews from Macedonia and Thrace to the Treblinka death camp.

Von Hahn, who was allegation secretary under the Nazi Foreign Ministry, is also accused of deporting 20,000 Greek Jews to Auschwitz. After the war he worked in the government's weapons testing and procurement office until he was suspended in 1963.

Beckerle at one time headed the SA in the state of Hesse. During the war he was the Nazi envoy in Sofia, Bulgaria.

No trial date has been set, and neither man is under arrest.

Report Nothing Tangible About Watts in Advance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "For two weeks we'd been hearing rumors that the Negroes were planning to run the Mexican and other white businessmen out of Watts," said Police Detective G. H. Riley. "And we'd noticed that the Mexicans seemed tense, afraid."

But, Riley said Wednesday, "we couldn't do much about a rumor until it became a fact. Until Tuesday, we didn't have anything tangible enough to nip in the bud."

Tuesday, after a routine arrest near Jordan High School in Watts, center of Los Angeles' teeming, sprawling Negro district, a riot bloomed into ugly flower across an area already devastated by six days of racial violence last August.

Between 3:30 p. m., when restless high school pupils went into the streets looking for an excuse for a fight and found one in the arrest, and 8:30 p. m., when police hopefully pronounced the disturbance contained, two persons were killed, 26 were injured, 49 were arrested, many cars were overturned and burned and 19 buildings were damaged or looted.

But Riley and his partner, Detective C. L. Larson, said the arrest, over a rock-throwing incident, only served to trigger the riot.

The violence, brewing for weeks, was fed by rumor and was actually born in a series of shootings Monday night, they said.

Hadrian's Wall, in England, was built by a Roman emperor to defend the Roman province of Britain in A.D. 136.

More Own Cameras

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Eighty per cent of the middle-income families in West Germany own at least one still camera, according to a survey conducted by the German Federal Office for Statistics here.
